The Execution of Green and Dillen

Paid the Penalty of Their Crime on the Scaffold.

THE DROP SPRUNG AT 10:51 SHARP

Dillen Lived Eighteen Minutes While Green Died in Twelve Minutes--Bore Their Fate Bravely.

THE SCENES AND INCIDENTS OF THE DAY

The last act in the sad tragedy which had for its beginning the death of Turnkey Jerry Condo in the Centre County Jail last July was performed Tuesday morning when Ira Green and Wm. Dillen paid the death penalty on the scaffold in the Bellefonte jail yard.

Thousands of people were outside the jail when the hour for the execution approached. Those having passes were slowly admitted at the door on the south side of the jail residence They then passed through the sheiff's office and into the jail yard where the terrible instrument of death was erected in south east corner of the jail yard. It is estimated that 1000 people crowded and jammed themselves through the door in their anxiety to see the hanging. It was 10:30 when the sheriff grouped the juries around the scaffold and swore them. Dillen's jury was as follows: W M. Cronister, P. J McDonnell, I. J. Dreese, Chas Eckenroth, L. C. Bullock, J. W. Sundey, Oliver Whitmer, Dave Weiser, Henry Hale, W. R. Hamer, S. H. Bennison, F. P. Musser. Dillen's physician was Dr. J L. Seibert.

Green's jury was as follows: Frank Hess, James Krebs, Burdine Butler. J. P. Sebring. H. F. McManaway, E. G. Jones, John I Curtin, Sol. Schmidt, Jno. Decker, Jas Schofield, Daniel Keller. Green's physician was Dr. R. G. H. Hayes.

The fatal moment had now arrived and Sheriff Taylor proceeded to the cells of the condemned men. The procession to the scaffold started at 10:45. First came Sheriff Taylor followed by Dillen with Rev. W. B. Cox supporting him. Then came Green with Rev. A. Davidson's arm about his shoulder. Both men were bearing up bravely on their way to death. They went out the north side into the jail yard and as they entered, everyone removed their hats in the presence of approaching death. Sheriff Taylor led the way up the steps and the group formed under the gallows tree. Besides the prisoners and their spiritual advisers there were Sheriff Taylor, Ex-Sheriff Cooke and Deputy Sheriff Jackson.

Rev. Cox stepped forward and said the men had a word to say. Dillen stepped to the rail and said: "I believe the Lord has saved me and I am forgiven, I am prepared to meet my God and know that Jesus saves. I expect to take dinner with my dear mother in heaven. There is a report going around that we killed Livingston, but it is not true." Dillen's hands were trembling but he was otherwise composed. He stepped back under the rope and Rev. W. B. Cox offered a short, earnest prayer.

Then Ex-Sheriff Cooke, Deputy Sheriff Jackson and Sheriff Taylor began to adjust the straps. Green took the rope and coolly toyed with it, slipping the noose back and forth. Suddenly he spoke out in a strong voice and said "Now gentlemen, take warning by this and don't do the same." Dillen appeared to be weakening and asked for a drink of water. It was brought him and he drank. Green then called out: "Have mercy upon us, Oh my God, this afternoon." The straps having been adjusted the black caps were pulled down and Dillen and Green had taken their last glimpse of this world. Dillen called out "Good bye gentlemen"; Green said "good bye boys." Just then Sheriff Taylor stepped back saying, "already boys" and Green quickly replied in a strong voice as the sheriff sprung the trap "All right, here we go."

The drop was forty inches and was not enough to allow the heads of the doomed men to pass below the trap. The drop fell at 10:51.

Doctors Hayes and Seibert stepped forward as soon as the drop fell. The necks of both men were broken by the fall. Green was pronounced dead in twelve minutes and Dillen was dead in eighteen minutes. The bodies however were not cut down for half and hour.

Undertaker Hardman P. Harris took charge of the remains and placed the men in their caskets.

The remains of Green were taken in charge by his father and were driven out to their home at Gum Stump. Dillen's body was taken on the 1:05 train to Ansonville, Clearfield county, where it will be buried beside his parents.

NOTES OF THE EXECUTION.

Quite a number of people fainted when the drop fell.

Miss Ida Condo, a daughter of Turnkey Jerry Condo witnessed the execution of her father's murderers from the sheriff's office.

The deputy sheriff's sworn in for the occasion were Cyrus Brungart, Detective Miles Swartzel, Robert Cooke, Philip Garbrick, Lemuel Poorman, William Rider, Samuel Morrison, Harry Austin, George Everhart, Robert Montgomery, H. Schreffler.

The doctors present were Hayes, Seibert, Locke, of this place, Dr. John I. Robinson, State College, Coroner Huff of Milesburg.

FORENOON DEVOTION.

This morning about 8 o'clock Sheriff Taylor brought out the ropes. Deputy Sheriff R. C. Collins of Mifflin county, Sheriff Harry Carlsle of Clearfield, Ex-Sheriff Cyrus Brungart of Centre Hall, Ex-Sheriff Robert Cooke of Howard, Sheriff Taylor and Deputy H. J. Jackson adjusted the ropes to the gallows and saw that everthing was in readiness.

People began gathering as early as 6 o'clock but only the deputies, relatives, newspaper reporters, etc., were admitted.

At 8:30 Rev. W. B. Cox, pastor of the Bellefonte United Evangelical church and spiritual advisor of the prisoners arrived at the jail and was admitted to the cells. With him were C. C. Shuey, Collins Johnston, Rev. A. Davidson of the Bellefonte United Brethren church. They began a religious service of song and prayer at 9 o'clock which lasted until near the time for the execution. It was held in the condemned men's cells.

Ira Green's father and little sister arrived at the jail at 9 o'clock and the farewell scene was very touching.

Mr. Dillen, wife and baby of Ansonville, Clearfield county, were in the jail and said farewell to their brother, William, at a little after 9 o'clock.

At the religious meeting both Green and Dillen expressed their trust in God and they were prepared to die. They joined in the singing heartily.

THEIR LAST NIGHT ON EARTH.

The condemned men passed a very comfortable night—their last on earth. They danced and sang as if they had not a care on earth. Before retiring they were given an hour's outing in the jail corridor and seemed to enjoy it like children. At twelve o'clock Guard Trafford brought them up a lunch, consisting of clam soup and swiss sandwiches and they ate heartily. Dillen said: "I am prepared to die and do not want a reprieve. I feel that my family and friends have done all they can for me." Green says the same thing and professes religion.

At 12 o'clock both men went to bed and slept soundly all night. Dillen woke up at 6 o'clock but Green slept until nearly 7:30 and the guard had to go and shake him to rouse him up. They were bright and cheerful and very cool. The sheriff had ordered a nice breakfast for them and it was soon brought up. It consisted of beefsteak and coffee, eggs and whole wheat biscuit. They both ate heartily, in fact they relished it so that they ate more than usual. It was a fine meal and they both thanked the sheriff for his kindness.

After that they were shaved by Barber R. A. Beck, had their hair cut and donned their suits of black sack coat, white collars and black ties and white shirts. They wore new shoes. Both Green and Dillen told the sheriff they wanted him to do a good job of hanging, that they did not want to be carried back to the scaffold a second time. Sheriff Taylor assured them that every precaution had been taken to prevent a mishap. At this suggestion they felt perfectly satisfied and that they would meet their death like brave men.

A DASTARDLY THREAT.

It is said that on Monday Sheriff Taylor received two anonymous letters, making threats that if he executed Green and Dillen they would kill him. One of the letters had inscribed on it the skull and bones. Considerable anxiety was occasioned by these threatening epistles, and to prevent any trouble prior to the execution, and especially on Monday night, the jail was closed tight and no one was allowed to enter. During the execution every precaution was taken to prevent the carrying out of the threats made in these anonymous letters. It is also stated that in one of these letters threats were made to dynamite and blow up the jail.

IRA GREEN.

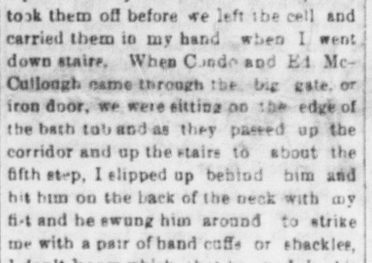
CONFESSION OF WILLIAM DILLEN.

Kind Friends:

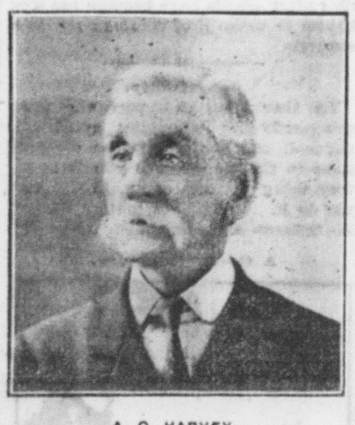
I am confined in the jail of Centre county, with the sentence of death hanging over me for a crime of which I am not guilty. Nevertheless, the law says I must die on the 9th of May. This being the case, I want to set things right so far as in me lies toward my God and fellowmen, and therefore, of my own free will and accord, I make this statement, which is true and correct to the best of my knowledge and belief.

I was born at Ansonville, Pennsylvania, April 9th, 1885. My mother died when I was about six years of age and my father died about seven months later. I have lived with my brothers and among strangers ever since until I was arrested, and put in jail last June. This was the first time I was ever arrested and, in fact, I was never in a court room, or saw a judge or sheriff to know them, or anyone with hand cuffs on until I had them put on my own arms. I am only twenty years old and it does seem hard to think of having your life taken from you; but I suppose I must die because the jury seems to think I helped to kill Mr. Jerry Condo.

Now, my kind friends, I will tell you all I know about the whole matter from beginning to end. Some time after Green and myself were put in the steel cell, George Henderson got to writing notes to me and I wrote notes to him. The prisoners carried them to and fro. After a while Henderson suggested that we try and break out of jail because we were all afraid of a big sentence, so we got a knife and made it like a saw and began to saw off the pin in the big hinge and when we heard that the sheriff was away from home and that there was something going on down town that night and that the family was all going away but Mr. Condo, we decided to break out that night. This was a little after dinner when Ed. McCullough told us that there was something going on down town that night and about the family being away. Then about five o'clock p. m. some one called up to us—I think it was about this time—that they were all going down town. Then we took the big iron that McCullough gave us and broke the pin off and got ready to get out of the cell. Our plan was to simply catch the old man and take the keys from him and then lock him in a cell. I told Green before we left the cell and after we got down in the bath room that he should be careful and whatever he did not to do the old man up, and not hurt him so as to do him up, and he said he wouldn't. I had a pair of heavy railroad shoes on, so I took them off before we left the cell and carried them in my hand when I went down stairs. When Condo and Ed McCullough came through the big gate, or iron door, we were sitting on the edge of the bath tub and as they passed up the corridor and up the stairs to about the fifth step, I slipped up behind him and hit him on the back of the neck with my fist and he swung him around to strike me with a pair of hand cuffs or shackles, I don't know which, that he had in his right hand. I struck him a second blow with my fist on the side of the neck and as I did this, I jumped back to the foot of the steps. This is all I done, then I turned and went into the bath room. I didn't hit him with the big iron and am willing and ready to face my God on that.



JERRY CONDO.



A. O. HARVEY.

(I swore on the stand down in the court house that I had hit him only once. That was an untruth. I did it to save myself. I am telling the whole truth now and God who is my judge, knows it is the truth.)

Before I went to the bath room I saw Green hit Mr. Condo twice on the top of the head with the iron with his sock wrapped around it. This is all I saw Green hit him. I heard Green say, "Don't holler, old man, and I won't hurt you." When I came out of the bath room Livingston had left the other prisoners out and as they were passing Condo, George Henderson hit Condo, with a broom stick two or three times along the side of the head. By this time the big door was open and we went out around the north side of the jail.

In the interval between the breaking of jail and capture, I am not familiar enough with the country to give an intelligent outline of our whereabouts. But I want to say that, regarding George Livingston, the rumor circulated that we killed him is untrue and that we never harmed that boy in the least. He left us on the mountain on this side of Mt. Eagle on Sunday between ten and eleven o'clock. He said he was hungry and went for some huckleberries. When he didn't come back, after we had waited quite a while, we went up over the mountain and didn't see anything of him and we thought that he had come back to Bellefonte, so we didn't stay on that side of the mountain. God knows that we didn't hurt him in any way.

Now, as I am here awaiting the day of my execution, I wish to say that I have told the truth about this whole trouble and, furthermore, I wish to say that I am sorry for all that I have done that is wrong. I have been a poor, miserable sinner all my life, and when people said anything to me about my soul, I always said there was lots of time yet, and this sin brought me where I am; but I am most happy to say to one and all that I have made my peace with God and know that He has forgiven me for all that I have done that was wrong and I hope you, kind friends, will do likewise. When I leave this world, I will do so with the confident hope of meeting my father and mother in Heaven. If I know my heart, I harbor no ill feelings toward anyone who has wronged me. While I know that they have said many hard things and blame me for many things that are not true, I forgive them all and hope and pray that God will do the same.

I desire to express my heartfelt thanks to Rev. Cox for his untiring labor and uniform kindness in his efforts to lead me to Christ, and to the sheriff, the guards and all others who have ministered to my comfort during my imprisonment.

I desire that after my decease my body be turned over to my relatives for burial or interment, and that I am buried by the side of my father and mother at Ansonville, Pennsylvania. But in the event of none of them being present to claim my body, that it be turned over to Rev. W. B. Cox, my spiritual adviser, to be buried as he may direct.

Witness: WILLIAM DILLEN.

JOHN TRAFFORD,
W. B. COX.

P. S. I desire that a copy of this confession be given to the KEYSTONE GAZETTE and the DAILY NEWS in time for publication on the day of execution.

WILLIAM DILLEN.

CONFESSION OF IRA GREEN.

TO THE PUBLIC:

As I am to be executed on the 9th day of May for the taking of the life of Jerry Condo, and realizing that an untruthful statement from me at this time can only affect me with Him before whom I must stand to be judged for all things that I have done, whether good or bad, I am desirous of making all things right as far as it is possible for me to do; and it is in the light of the forgoing facts that I make this last statement to the Rev. W. B. Cox, this being the only full, complete and truthful statement made or authorized to be made by me. Furthermore, I do most solemnly declare that the facts as herein set forth are true and correct.

I was born August 1st, 1882, at Centreville, Elk county, Pennsylvania, moved to Centre county when eight years of age and lived in the neighborhood of Bellefonte until three years ago, when I went to Tyrone.

I have been arrested ten times. On June 21st, I was arrested on the charge of breach of trust and placed in the Centre county jail. I was allowed the same privileges as the other prisoners for the first week and then I was placed in cell No. 8 with William Dillen. Why we were placed in the steel cell I don't know; I never had any difficulty with anyone in or about the jail, positively none with Mr. Condo or the Sheriff. After we were placed in the steel cell about three weeks, George Henderson started to write notes and sent them over to us by Ed. McCullough, George Kline, Freeman, Simon McGee and George Livingston. In these notes Henderson suggested that we saw off the hinge and break out of jail. We asked Ed. McCullough for a knife and he gave us a caseknife. Livingston gave us a case knife also and we used a pocket knife that belonged to Ed McCullough, too. We nicked the edge of the knives and used them to saw off the pin in the hinge. On the 29th of July, we asked McCullough for a big iron and he gave it to us. We didn't want to keep it in our cells so McCullough kept it hid for us. With it we broke the bolt or pin off. We took the big iron along down stairs so as to have something to break the big door down if it was locked—that is the wooden door outside. Our plans were from the beginning simply to break out of jail. Ed. McCullough told us that the sheriff and his family were all away and that Jerry was alone. We had planned to catch Jerry and put him in a cell and and if we couldn't accomplish this, to hit him but not hurt enough to kill. Dillen was careful to make this plain.

THE PLAINS OF YUHA

SOME OF THE CURIOSITIES OF THE COLORADO DESERT.

Graves Each of Which Tells a Story of a Tragedy of Heat, Thirst and Death—Odd Stones and Shells That Strew the Barren Region.

There is a section of the Colorado desert where nature has left some remarkable records. She has visited the region alternately with fire and water and has left it with neither. It is the most desolate, wild, barren, forbidding part of the desert, says the Los Angeles Times, and it is shunned alike by man and beast. That there is good and sufficient reason for avoiding this locality is attested by numbers of graves, nameless for the most part, found in the terrible region.

These graves are simple affairs, merely mounds of earth with a border of stones about each and a pile of rocks two or three feet high at the head. Each tells the story of a tragedy of heat, thirst and death. Those items are about all that is ever known of the stories of those who perish. Their mummified bodies or bleached bones are found long after the struggle is over, and the finder, respecting the memory of the unknown, scoops a hole in the earth, lays the ghastly relic within and piles up the only monument available in that wild region.

The plain now lies nearly a hundred feet below the level of the sea, and the rocks of the plain and the bases of the mountains are washed and eroded in a wonderful manner. Mingling with the burnt stones and volcanic debris are rocks worn by the waves and shaped into hundreds of fantastic forms. There are many acres of these stone curiosities, and certain sections of the field seem devoted to certain shapes and figures.

For instance, one passes through a region which he at once names the cabbage patch, for it presents the appearance of a field of those vegetables which have turned to stone. The waves have worn the rocks into round bowlders about the size of the vegetable which they so much resemble and have cut into the globes, laminating them in perfect imitation of the leafy layers of the garden vegetable.

Another locality is devoted almost exclusively to dinner plates. Thousands of rounded, thin disks are scattered over the plain or are piled scores deep in singular piles, each piece shaped exactly like the crockery which adorns our tables and quite as thin and symmetrical.

Another section of this truly wonderful region is given almost wholly to dumbbells. These vary in size from pieces weighing one or two pounds up to those seemingly calculated for exercising the muscles of a giant and weighing thirty or forty pounds each. In almost every instance these natural dumbbells are well balanced, the balls at either end of the connecting piece being of the same size and weight.

There is in this plain an arsenal also. While guns and swords and bayonets and powder were not there to be found, there are thousands of cannon balls varying in size from two and three inch balls to those fit for the big thirteen inch guns of modern warfare. And all are of stone, all formed in nature's workshop.

There are other objects innumerable. There are stone roses, stone lilies, stone tulips, stone leaves, stone birds, stone animals, stone quoits, stone ornaments in varied and unique designs, stone canes—in fact, almost everything conceivable in nature or art imitated in stone on the plain of Yuha.

In one portion of Yuha rise two hills or small mountains. One might mistake them in the distance for ancient craters, but when he approaches the eminences he discovers them to be monuments to an ancient life—the records of species now extinct. They are shell mountains, great beds of prehistoric bivalves which were left stranded when that ancient sea swept back from the region and left a dry and desolate land.

One of these mountains, the large one, is composed wholly of large rough shells, much larger, but less elongated, than the shells of the modern oyster, which in some respects they so much resemble as to lead to the suspicion that they are the remains of the ancestors of our much prized bivalve.

The lesser hill is composed of tiny shells of a prehistoric type of brachiopoda. Like the larger shells, they are found except on the surface in an undisturbed state, both valves of nearly every shell being found in position. Although the mollusk dwellers of these shells vanished several centuries ago, so perfect are the shells one almost expects when he opens the valve of the shell to find the living creature within.

KITCHEN HELPS

Bedticking, not too heavy, makes excellent dish towels, as it has no lint. Wash thoroughly before hemming.

Half a lemon placed in the water in which dish towels and kitchen cloths are soaked is said to sweeten them wonderfully.

Dip a cloth in kerosene oil and rub it all over the metal teakettle. Let stand half an hour and wash off with soapsuds. Polish with newspaper and baking soda. Do this weekly.

Conveniently near the range in the kitchen should be placed the sink and the dresser, not too far from the table and range. You have then the principal articles so placed that the labor will be much lightened.

Borax is a useful thing to have in a kitchen. Add a little to the water when boiling out enameled saucepans, and it will help to cleanse them. If added to the water dishcloths are washed in, it will help to keep them a nice color.

System In Housekeeping.

One of the first things for the woman struggling for system to do is to try to get the work of her house in perspective. This is not easy. It is a truism that women are lacking in a sense of proportion, and it is not a simple matter for one of them to get herself mentally far enough from her work to decide the relative importance of each item. But she must do it if she is to develop her system of work in the right way. She should mentally range her duties in order and divide them into what must be done and what may be done if circumstances permit. The first list will be long enough, but the second will exceed it. The chief trouble with housekeepers is that they get the items of the two lists mingled and confused.—Harper's Bazar.

Cream Cheese.

To make delicious cream cheese after an English dairy recipe take a quart of sweet milk, adding a cupful of cream if a rich cheese is desired, and add a few drops of liquid rennet. This rennet may be had in little tabloids also. Place the milk in a warm corner for twenty-four hours. Throw in a little salt and stir well. Wring out in ice water a napkin or linen cloth and put the cheese in it, tying up tightly. Hang this up to drain. Change the napkins at night and leave hanging. The cheese is ready to eat in twenty-four hours.

Steamed Ham.

A small ham may be steamed instead of boiled. Prepare the ham in the usual manner by soaking it in cold water for eighteen hours and afterward scrubbing and trimming it. Put it in the steamer over boiling water and cook, allowing half an hour to each pound of ham. The reason ham is so often indigestible is that it is underdone. In Vienna hospitals, where great attention is paid to the dietary, ham, boiled and baked until it falls to pieces under the fork, is given patients convalescing from typhoid fever.

Effect of Arsenic on the Face.

The slow absorption of many poisons changes in some more or less modified form the complexion, but arsenic and ammonia show their effect about as quickly as any. The popular belief that arsenic clears the complexion has led many silly women to kill themselves with it in small, continued doses. It produces a waxy, ivorylike appearance of the skin during a certain stage of the poisoning, but its terrible after effects have become too well known to make it of common use as a cosmetic.

Opportunity.

You think that an opportunity must necessarily be something great and unusual, but the fact is the stepping stone to the place above you is in the very thing you are doing, in the way you do it. It does not matter what it is.—Success Magazine.

Racing Ponies In India.

Not much more enviable than the lot of the unfortunate man who is reported to have grown shorter is that of racing ponies in India, Egypt and elsewhere, which are made to measure from three-quarters of an inch to a full inch lower than their natural measurements. Paring the hoof can only be done to a certain extent. But ponies can be educated to stand with their heels apart, and if the head is tied up for some time before they are put under the standard they will stand to their best advantage. Two pounds avoirdupois per quarter inch is the regular allowance in the "scale for age class and inches."—London Pall Mall Gazette.

The Cavities.

"Name the cavities," said a schoolteacher to a small boy, according to the Chicago Inter Ocean. The boy was very round. His body was round, his eyes were round and his legs were round, and one of them drew up as if by pulley as he screwed his head on his neck and twisted his round mouth to say: "T-t-the head cavity, the thorax cavity and the borax cavity. The head cavity's what we keep our brains in to think with and the thorax cavity's what we keep our lungs in to breathe with and the borax cavity's what we keep the vowels in, consisting of A, E, I, O and U and sometimes W and Y."

THE JURY DISAGREED!

At 1:55 O'clock Jury in Nan Patterson Case

WAS DISCHARGED

This was the Third Time the Accused Had Been on Trial for Murdering "Caesar" Young.

SHE WAS PALE AND VERY NERVOUS

New York, May 4 —The jury in the Nan Patterson trial at 1:55 o'clock this morning reported a disagreement.

New York, May 4 —At 1:30 o'clock this morning the jury in the case of Nan Patterson, tried for the third time on the charge of murdering "Caesar" Young, was called into the court room by Recorder Goff. When the 12 men were in their places and the court officials had all arrived the recorder asked why the defendant had not been brought into court. A deputy sheriff replied that she had been feeling ill and had retired, but was then being dressed. After a wait of fifteen minutes Miss Patterson appeared, looking pale and in a highly nervous state.

"Gentlemen, have you been able to reach an agreement ?" asked the recorder of the jury.

"No. sir," replied the foreman.

"Is there any question of law or of evidence in which I can instruct you ? Is there anyway in which the court can help you ?"

The foreman looked for an instant at his fellow members of the jury, then turned to the recorder and said :

"No, sir. I don't believe you can help us."

"Then you will retire to consider the matter."

The jury filed out and the court room was cleared.

Recorder Goff remained in his chamber ready to receive a verdict if rendered or to further instruct the jury. Later the jury was discharged.

New York, May, 3 —With the jury which is considering her case still out, Nan Patterson sits to-night in her cell in the Tombs buoyed up by the hope that at the end of their deliberation the twelve men will agree to a verdict of not guilty. Miss Patterson's hopes are based partly on rumors which were current about the criminal court building yesterday afternoon that the first ballots taken in the jury room were decidedly in her favor. The jury has had the case since shortly after 1 o'clock yesterday.

During the afternoon the jury sent to the court room for articles of clothing worn by "Caesar" Young at the time he met his death, and for the skeleton which was exhibited during the trial by the prosecution in its endeavor to show that the victim of the tragedy could not have inflicted the wound himself.

The jury was taken out to dinner at 8:30 o'clock. They were surrounded by a platoon of policemen and followed by a great throng, as they made their way toward a restaurant. The jurymen were greeted by cries of "Set her free," "set Nan free, she deserves it." It was 10:05 o'clock when the jury returned to the criminal courts building after dinner and resumed its consideration of the case.

At 11:50 o'clock Recorder Goff telephoned from his home that he would arrive at the criminal courts building within the next half hour. Whether a verdict had been reached or whether the recorder was coming to order the jury to be locked up for the night it could not be learned.

New York, May 4.—At 1:35 the jury, recorder and other court officials had assembled in the court room. Recorder Goff demanded to know why Nan Patterson was not present and was informed that she was ill. He gave orders directing that she be procured immediately.

Purchases of Coal Lands.

The March issue of Cent Per Cent treated with considerable fulness the increasing demands for coal lands, and the April issue dealt with the unprecedented demand for coal, and evidence continues to accumulate along each of these lines. The fact that both of Cent Per Cent's articles have been widely copied shows the great interest felt in the subjects. One of the largest sales so far placed on record was concluded early in April, the purchaser being the Vesta Coal Co., which is practically Jones & Laughlin, of Pittsburg. The purchase consisted of 9,690 acres of Washington Co., Pa., coal, and the price paid for it is something more than $3,000,000, or about $330 an acre. A local paper, the Belle Vernon Enterprise, familiar with all the facts, shows in the following paragraphs the great activity of large manufacturers in getting possession of coal lands :

"The sellers began taking up this field in 1899, the first tracts being bought from Elmer R. Deems and F. L. Hastings. Since that they have steadily added to their holdings, having made some purchases within the last few weeks, until they had a compact body of nearly 10,000 acres of the best coal in Washington county. While numerous big sales have been made in Fayette, this is the first extensive block transfer of coal made across the river. It gives promise of other sales to be made in Washington and Greene counties. It is also significant that the recent $1,000,000 purchase of Washington county coal by the United States Steel Corporation should be followed so soon by this $3,000,000 purchase by Jones and Laughlin, the largest independent steel manufacturers.—Cent Per Cent for May.

Women's Missionary Society.

The Wednesday afternoon session of the Woman's missionary society was full of items of interest and business. The various societies reported and the contingent funds were paid. Mrs. W. H. Philipps read a most excellent paper entitled "Lengthen the Cord and Strengthen the Stake." A strong address on the subject, "The Future of Missions" was delivered by the Rev. S. H. Stein, of Lock Haven. Miss Margaret Kryder recited "Mary at the Tomb." Miss Louise Harper sang a solo very effectively and then followed the taking of the pledges of the various local societies for the coming year.

The classical society pays annually $150 towards the support of the Girl's school in Sendai, Japan, and $50 towards the support of two trained nurses in China. The society also received a number of pledges towards the establishment of a church building fund of $500. The following officers were elected : President, Miss Gutelius; vice pres., Mrs. Martin Garman; Secy, Mrs. Wm. Knecht; Treas. Miss Eva Moyer. The president was elected delegate to the General Synod society. Miss Eva Moyer and Mrs. W. H. Philipps as delegates to the Eastern Synod society.

The County Retailers.

The merchantile appraisement for 1905 has the following notable facts : Bellefonte, with a population of 4816 has 89 retail business houses, while Philipsburg with a population of 3265 has 113 retail houses—although its population is 950 less than that of Bellefonte, it has 24 more stores. Thus for its number of business houses Philipsburg ranks first and Bellefonte second. In the rest of the principal towns of the county their rank for retail stores would be : Philipsburg 1, Bellefonte 2nd.

3. State College, 29 stores.

4. Howard and Millheim, 23 each.

5. Spring Mills and Port Matilda, 17 each.

6. Centre Hall, 16 stores.

7. Aaronsburg, Milesburg, Coburn, and Snow Shoe, each 14 retail business places.

All the other villages in the county drop from the 7th rank down as low as one store.

The total number of retail stores in the county is 430.

The Bellefonte Hospital.

We would just say under the supervision of the head nurse, Miss Bescherer, our hospital is one of the best managed institutions in the State, beyond a doubt. Her assistants, numbering four in all are the most obliging and accommodating set of young ladies they could have secured. There is nothing too hard for them to do for anyone that is in that institution. And they one and all are kind and agreeable, and a big comfort to anyone who may have to go there. The staff consists with Miss Bescherer, as head nurse, Misses Herman, Garner, Jenkins and last but not least, the night nurse Miss Shipley.

BRIEF MENTION

Short Items of Local Interest Gathered By The Way Side

—Local items will be always welcome.

—The wages of all the employees of the Bellefonte Furnace Company were increased ten cents a day on May 1st.

—All those who have subscribed to the Academy improvement fund are hereby requested to send in their checks at once. All checks to be marked Academy Improvement Fund.

—The Sig. Sautelle and Welsh Brothers shows have cancelled their date to appear in Bellefonte May 24th on account of the appearance of John Robinson's show here on the 22nd.

—From the Philipsburg Journal : "Charles H. Rowland, at his handsome residence on the corner of South Centre and Maple streets, is arranging to build a mammoth porch, which for architectural beauty and cost of construction will surpass anything in town. The material is now being delivered on the ground preparatory to commencing the work."

—One of the largest catches of trout that has been brought to Bellefonte thus far this season was brought here last Thursday evening by C. M. Heisler, Geo. Knisely, Frank Graham and a Mr. Goodfellow, of Altoona. They spent the day on Fishing creek and came home with 60 trout which filled one basket to the lid and another half full. In size they were from 7 to 14½ inches.

—Bernard McGovern, one of the men employed on the building of the new bridge over the race on High street, was accidently injured Thursday. They were removing some of the planks on the side next to Keichline's store when the fence that extended along the bridge from the store to the railroad track gave way and in falling struck McGovern on the back. He suffered considerable pain as a result and was compelled to quit work.

—Mount Union is again upon the railroad map. The small pox epidemic there being now in its last stages, orders have been issued by the Pennsylvania Railroad company that the regular trains will stop there as usual. There are some thirty-five cases still under quarantine in the town, but there have been no new cases for some days. The present patients are convalescing and it is believed that the epidemic is at an end.

—Ex-Sheriff W. M. Cronister has sold his big hardware store in Philipsburg to J. F. Kephart, of Brisbin, who took immediate possession of the same. The new proprietor has heretofore been engaged in the coal business, but is a wide-awake, energetic man and will no doubt prove successful in his new venture. He will move his family to Philipsburg. It is not yet known what Mr. Cronister's plans are for the future though it is stated that he intends remaining in Philipsburg.

—The contract has been let by the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company for the construction of the largest reservoir in this end of the State, if not the largest in Pennsylvania. This great dam, which will be located at Griffin, 35 miles from Pittsburg and 23 miles from Connelsville, will have a capacity of 30,000,000 gallons. The dam will be 386 feet long, 54 feet high and 39 feet through. It will be necessary to construct 8,450 cubic yards of concrete to hold so great a body of water. The dam will be one of the largest and heaviest pieces of stone work ever constructed for such a purpose. The contract price approximates $52,000.

—James Reed, who holds a very responsible position in the office of the First Assistant Postmaster General at Washington, came to Tyrone today and is looking up real estate matters with a view of making several purchases. Mr. Reed's attention was attracted to the desirability of Tyrone as a place for real estate investment and he is highly pleased with the town's aspect and prospect. Mr. Reed is a veteran soldier, having enlisted from Bellefonte in the Fifty-third Pennsylvania regiment and he was five times wounded during the Civil war. He has been connected with the post-office department at Washington for the past seventeen years.—Thursday's Tyrone Herald.

—The Butler county commissioners recently received from a member of the late grand jury a letter in which was the sum of $1.44 which the juror said he had been over paid. In making out the warrant for the jurors time and mileage, the commissioners had figured on an old route to the man's home but when the juror got counting up what was due him he had traveled by a shorter route which cut off 12 miles from the total distance as figured by the commissioners and he therefore sent back the difference. In the memory of the court officials this is the first time in the history of the county when a juror has admitted having been paid too much and returned to the county the excess paid him.—Franklin Herald.

Wherein Pittsburgh Leads the World.

Pittsburgh, Pa., is a busy place. Its freight tonnage in 1902 was 88,000 000 tons. That was double the tonnage of London, four times greater than that of Paris, more than that of Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Chicago combined, and greater even than the aggregate tonnage of New York, Liverpool and Hong Kong, the three greatest shipping ports in the world. And it is claimed by the vice president of the Carnegie Steel Company that the tonnage of 1905 will surpass that of 1902. The development of Pittsburgh has been almost wholly within fifty years, and principally within half that time. It is a little more than twenty-five years since Andrew Carnegie began his system of iron mills there which have developed into the most extensive in the world. About the same time the National Tube Works Co. removed their works from Boston to a suburb of Pittsburg, and their mills have also grown enormously. But the foundation of Pittsburg's greatness, and of her enormous tonnage is coal. Along the entire length of the city on the south side there is a hill rich with coal—Coal Hill, it once was called; and on up the Monongahela Valley the hills on either side produce coal in fabulous quantities. Many of these mines are dead, "worked out," but the Monongahela Valley yet contributes millions of tons of coal a year to swell Pittsburg's tonnage. In earlier years Pittsburgh was "a coal town" and its present commercial importance is largely due to the manufactories which its fuel supply developed.—Cent Per Cent for May.

Weather Prognostications.

Chickens take extra pains in oiling their feathers just before a rain. Pea fowls send forth their shrill cries as a warning, and when the quail cries "more wet" from the meadow, the farmer works briskly to get his hay under shelter. If the chickweed and scarlet pimpernel expand their tiny petals, rain need not be expected for a few hours. Bees work with redoubled energy just before a rain. If the flies are unusually persistent, either in the house or around stock, there is rain in the air. The cricket sings at the approach of cold weather. Squirrels store a large supply of nuts, the husks of corn are unusually thick, and the buds of deciduous trees have a firmer protecting coat if a severe winter is at hand. If the poplar or quaking aspen leaves turn up the under side rain will soon follow.

If the fog rises in the morning, it is a sign of rain; if it settles, a clear sky may be expected. Watch the smallest cloud you can see. If it increases in size it is going to rain; if it melts away and vanishes completely, fair weather will follow.

If the camphor bottle becomes oily it is going to storm. When it clears settled weather may be expected. This idea has seemingly been utilized in the manufacture of some of our cheap barometers. The main trouble is they seldom fortell the change until about the time it arrives.

Last, but not least, rheumatics can always tell it "in their bones," when a storm is approaching, and to this prognostication the octogenarian of today is as firm an advocate as were his forefathers.

Odds and Ends.

Every household should have its well marked boxes and bags for the proper sorting out of odds of silks and cloths and linens.

Every odd bit of stuff that is of any size should be saved. You can never tell when you need a bit of silk to line a collar or a strip of muslin for bands.

A good plan with dresses and suits is to go over the piece bag in which are kept the leftover every little while and get rid of all that belong to garments you have discarded. Better still, to go to these bags, whenever you are passing a dress on to someone less fortunate than yourself and send with it all the pieces that match. They help out wonderfully with any fixing over.

Or if you want to empty these boxes any time there are always homes and sewing schools of which the managers are only too glad to get just the very things you are discarding.

A Lesson in Health.

Hello Girls on Strike.

The Bell telephone operators at Philipsburg went out on strike Monday. It seems Manager Brown had been calling them down, so the story goes, and the young ladies took their rag dolls and went home, leaving Manager Brown with a switchboard, but no operators. He secured temporary help the same day from Tyrone and Clearfield. Now, Lukenbach wants to watch out and not get "sassy" or the H. & C. girls will join the strikers and the town will be tongue-tied, for a fact —Ledger.

A Revelation.

If you will make inquiry it will be a revelation to you how many succumb to kidney or bladder troubles in one form or another. If the patient is not beyond medical aid, Foley's Kidney Cure will cure. It never disappoints. Sold by C. M. Parrish.

Vin-Te-Na... Means Vim.

It is a medicine that actually feeds the weakened nerves by enriching and purifying the blood. Each ingredient is of the highest medical value. It cures more diseases than any other remedy on the market simply because it gets right down to the source of nine-tenths of all diseases, that is, the blood and nerves. When the blood is made pure and rich and the nerves are toned, diseases disappear as surely as shadows disappear when the light is turned on. If you are rheumatic; if you have stomach, liver or bowel trouble; if your nervous system is going to pieces, Vin-te-na will cure you because all these troubles are caused by bad blood.

THE EXECUTION OF GREEN--DILLEN.

before we got out of the cell and after we got down in the bath room. Livingston pushed the door back and helped us to get out of the cell. I took the brace off of the bed and wrapped it in a stocking. I was the first one to get out of the cell and Dillen came after. I slid down the post and Dillen went down the stairs to the first floor and then we went into the bath room. We sat there for a half or three quarters of an hour, talking. After we were in the bath room awhile, George Kline came down to the big door and was talking to Fanny Mulbarger, after Miss Mulbarger left, Kline came into the bath room and said to us: "I glory in you fellows' spunk." All the prisoners knew what we were going to do. About fifteen minutes after this, Mr. Condo and Ed. McCollough came in. Condo locked the door and put the key in his right hip pocket. When Condo was on the third step, Dillen went up behind him and Condo turned around about half way and Dillen hit him with his fist on the back of the head, once. I took hold of the old man's shoulders and told him not to holler and no one would hurt him. He resisted and then I hit him with the iron with the sock wrapped around it. I led him down to the foot of the steps and sat him down on the floor. While he was going up the steps, before I hit him, George Livingston grabbed the keys from the key chain and ran up and unlocked cell No. 7 in which Henderson and Dominick Constans were locked. After he unlocked cell No. 7 Livingston came down stairs and picked up the "T" iron that Dillen had dropped when he struck Condo with his fist, and he (Livingston) struck Mr. Condo one blow over the back with the "T" iron. Henderson was carrying a broom stick in his right hand and as he passed Mr. Condo where he was sitting on the floor, he struck him along the side of the head just above the ear two blows just as hard as he could strike, and Jerry rolled over on the floor. Dominick Constans came down the stair and jumped on him with, I can't say whether one foot, or both feet. By this time the big iron door was open and I was the first one out, then Dillen, Livingston, Dominick and Henderson last. We went around the north side of the jail outside of the town, then across the fields to Muncy mountain; went over into the Allegheny mountains, near Marsh Creek; stayed around in there until Sunday, down through the streets of Howard on Sunday night about 10 o'clock; stayed that night in a big red barn just below Howard. About nine o'clock Monday morning we started from there and walked the railroad to Beech Creek, went down along the creek and Monday night we stayed in the woods. Tuesday we went down the creek a little farther and went in swimming and came out of the water, and we were sitting in the shade when Mr. Harvey, of Flemington, and his party came up to where we were and told us to hold up our hands. We were then taken to the Lock Haven jail, and Joe Rightnour called me out to one side and told me that we were arrested for murder, that Jerry Condo was dead. This was the first that we knew that Condo had died and we never thought of killing him.

Regarding George Livingston, I want to say that the following are the true facts: Sunday, we had had a little something to eat We had gotten some bread on Saturday night at a farm house, and after we ate that, Livingston said he was hungry and was going up in the mountain to pick some huckleberries and asked us if we would go along, but no one went but he himself. We never saw him after that. We started to hunt for him along in the afternoon and couldn't find him and made up our minds that he had come back to Bellefonte to tell the sheriff where we were and we went over on the other side of the mountain.

Believe me friends, I have told the truth about this whole thing as far as I know. I am sorry for all the wrongdoings of my life. I have prayed God to forgive me and believe He has and I hope those whom I have wronged will do likewise. I leave this world with the confident hope that I am saved through faith and that Jesus Christ is my personal saviour.

I desire to return my heartfelt thanks to Rev. Cox for his uniform kindness and deep interest in my temporal and spiritual welfare.

I desire that after my decease my body be given to my relatives for burial and in the event of none of them being present to claim it, that it be turned over to Rev. W. B. Cox, my spiritual adviser, to be buried as he may direct.

Witness: IRA GREEN.

JOHN TRAFFORD,
W. B. COX.

P. S. I desire that a copy of this confession be given to the KEYSTONE GAZETTE and the DAILY NEWS in time for publication on the day of execution.

IRA GREEN.

HISTORY OF THE CRIME AND THE TRIAL

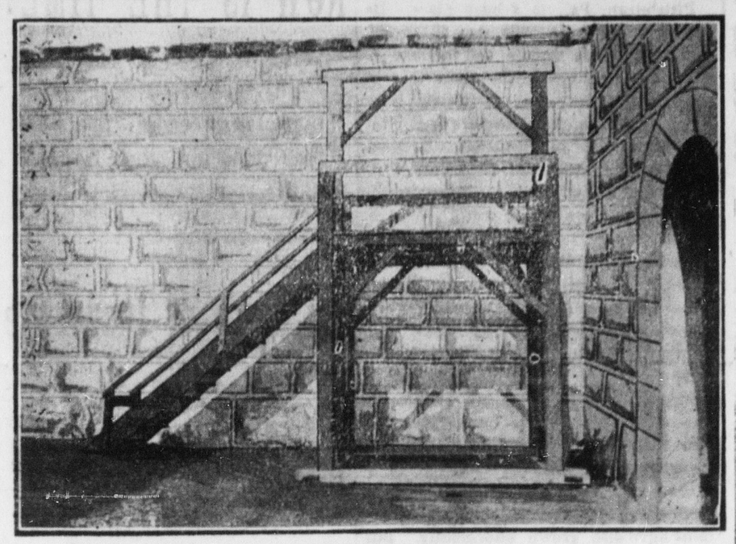
The crime for which Ira Green and William Dillen paid the death penalty on the scaffold this morning was the brutal murder of Turnkey Jerry Condo at the Centre County Jail on Friday evening July 29th last.

Nothing so sensational has occurred in Bellefonte in many years as was the escape of five prisoners from the Centre county jail and the murder of the turnkey, Jerry Condo on the night of the 29th of last July. The men who escaped were William Dillen, Ira Green, Dominic Constance, George Henderson and George Livingston. The escape of these men was one of the boldest and most daring crimes in the history of criminal annals. Dillen and Green were the ringleaders in the daring undertaking and were confined together in steel cell No. 8 on the second floor of the jail. Next to them was Dominic Constance and Geo. Henderson in cell 7. They had evidently been planning this event for some time. Dillen and Green had secreted in their cell a butcher knife which they had filed into a saw and by means of that they sawed the upper hinge of their door and forcing the door back got out into the corridor. Arming themselves with an iron bar taken from their bed they secreted themselves in the bath room located on the lower floor and near the main entrance of the jail. George Livingston, the boy who was confined in jail for a slight offense was allowed the liberty of the corridors during the day and he learned from the girls about the jail that Sheriff Taylor was away at Gettysburg camp, that the deputy sheriff had gone off duty at 5 o'clock and the sheriff's family were attending a picnic at Hecla Park. This left no one in the jail but turnkey Condo. It was the latter's habit to make the rounds about 8 o'clock and on the evening in question he did not deviate from this rule. He was accompanied by a trusty named Ed McCullough. The latter was in advance of Condo and near the top of the stairs leading to the upper tier of cells Condo was just at the foot of the stairs when suddenly Green and Dillen, rushed out of the bath room and struck the turnkey down, raining blow after blow on the old mans head. McCullough stood at the top of the stairs to frightened to make an outcry or to interfere. Taking the keys from the old man, Green and Dillen opened the front door and then throwing the keys back to George Livingston made good their escape. Livingston then ran up and liberated Henderson and Constance and they soon joined Green and Dillen.

The exciting days that followed, the pursuit and final capture and return to jail of all except Livingston (who has never been heard of since) is still fresh in the memory of our readers and needs no lengthy repetition here We will just briefly give a few facts of interest. After four days of continuous pursuit by large possees of men Green, Dillen and Henderson were captured in a swamp on the Krider farm at Flemington. Constance was not captured until the following Friday when John Switzer, of Coleville, landed him in the mountain back of Valley View where he had been hiding ever since his escape. Livingston is still at large.

Turnkey Condo, the victim of this sad tragedy, died Sunday morning July 31 at 1 o'clock. He never regained consciousness after the terrible beating he received. There were no less than 15 cuts on his head and several of his ribs were broken. The lower corridor walls were spattered with blood and great pools of blood stood on the floor. The imprints of the old mans hands were on the door leading into the residence portion of the jail. What must have been the thoughts of Green and Dillen when they marched down the steps and over the very spot where they killed the old man, on their way to meet their doom. Had they had a mind to look they might have noticed the blood spots still visible on the floor and walls. The murdered man was born at Penn Hall and was aged 61 years, 6 months and 2 days. For 2 years prior to coming to Bellefonte he was a resident of Spring Mills. During the civil war he served in Co. D, 148th Pennsylvania Regiment, commanded by Gen. Beaver. He left a wife and several children

Henderson and Constance were tried at the August term of court and convicted of crimes of a lesser degree and are now serving terms in the penitentiary. Green and Dillen were placed on trial at the same term of court and the case was closely contested. Judge John G. Love tried the case in a fair and impartial manner. The attorneys for the commonwealth were District Attorney N. B. Spangler, Col. E. R. Chambers and Ellis L. Orvis. The defendants were taken care of in an able manner by Ex-Judge A. O. Furst, Clement Dale and H. C. Quigley. The jury selected was as follows: Wm. VanTries, Ferguson twp; Ellis Williams, Worth; J. H. Sands, Bellefonte; L. L. Burwell, Ferguson; W. Shimmel, Philipsburg; Daniel Eisenhuth, Haines; G. W. Ream, Gregg; Jno. Shoutz, Philipsburg; J. H. Griffen, Half Moon; Geo. Garbrick, Bellefonte; C. L. Gramley, Rebersburg; Jacob D. Wagner, Bellefonte. The trial began Thursday morning and was given to the jury Saturday afternoon following at 2:45 o'clock. The jury was out 18 hours returning a verdict Sunday morning at 9:20 of murder in the 1st degrees. The case was taken to the Supreme Court and the Board of Pardons but they refused to interfere and Gov. Pennypacker finally signed the death warrant fixing May 9th as the day of execution.



THE SCAFFOLD.

HISTORY OF FORMER EXECUTIONS.

In connection with the execution of Ira Green and William Dillen which occurred here today it will be appropriate to recall and give a brief account of the former executions which took place in Centre county.

The first case of capital punishment was on December 13, 1802, by James Duncan, who was high sheriff. On the evening of the 15th of October, 1802, a mulatto named James Burrows, in the employ of John Dunlop, was shot dead from his horse while driving his team between Bellefonte and Valentine's furnace. Byers was arrested and at the trial it was discovered that the trouble was caused by an intimacy which sprung up between Byers and Burrows' wife. The night the murder took place Byers stole a rifle from his master and waited for his victim. He shot him through the body and when he fell the wagon wheels ran over him. When Byers was executed a large crowd of forgemen and other original characters assembled to witness the execution. The rope broke and Byers fell to the ground unhurt. The crowd then shouted, "Negro Dan is free." An exciting time followed when Archey, McSwords and McKibben made a move to rescue him. Sheriff Duncan struck McSwords with a lead-loaded wagon whip and he fell to the ground like an ox. This excited a riot and to quell it Captain Potter's company, on horseback, made a charge and William Irwin of the troop, leveled McKibben with a blow of his sword. In the meantime William Peterikin stepped up to "Negro Dan" and patted him on the shoulder saying, "'Dan,'" you have always been a good boy, go up like a man and be hung," which he did.

The next execution was that of James Monks of Potter township, charged with the murder of Reuben Guild. He was convicted at the November term of court 1818. The murder, which, from the prisoner's confession, appears to have been entirely unprovoked, took place on the evening of Sunday, Novembar 16, 1817. It appears from the confession of the prisoner written in jail while awaiting execution, he was returning to his home on Marsh Creek, Howard township, from Clearfield, and met Guild, who was mounted on a horse, in a lonely part of the road. Having passed the time of day and proceeded a short distance, an uncontrollable desire came upon Monks, who was armed with a gun, to shoot Guild. Apparently powerless to resist the impulse, he raised and shot him through the body. The victim uttered a shriek and fell from the horse, and as Monks approached him said, "My friend, you have killed me." Monks, feeling that the shot had proved ineffectual, struck him two blows on the head with his tomahawk, which silenced him forever.

After disposing of all tracks of the deed, he mounted the murdered man's horse and pursued on his journey. It transpired, however, that in his hurried preparations to get away, and being considerably under the influence of liquor, he dropped his song book on the spot which latter circumstance eventually led to his arrest on suspicion.

Monks was hung on Saturday, January 23, 1819, by John Mitchell, Esq., then high sheriff. Wm. Armor, a fifer of the War of 1812, played the "Dead March" under his scaffold.

Samuel Wilson of Potter, the last surviving juror, died September 18, 1880, aged 90 years.

Joseph, son of Reuben Guild, died some eight years ago at Powsheik, Iowa. It was his watch his father wore when murdered, and he was a witness in court to identify it.

The next execution took place in 1890, the victim being W. Seely Hopkins of Philipsburg. He was a carpenter by trade and in his own town met, courted and married Miss Maggie Wigaman. His married life was one of constant quarrels and strife. He lived in the same house with his mother-in-law and her son Robert. Seely accused his wife of infidelity and the mother-in-law of being mean towards him. Hopkins it seems grew reckless and refused to contribute anything towards the family expenditures. He was arrested twice for abusing the women and a week before the murder, was arrested and released on the supposition that he would leave the town. He returned on Saturday evening, September 21, 1889, and crept into the cellar of the house and slept there until the next morning when he went up in his stocking feet and shot his wife down in the kitchen and then killed Mrs. Wigaman in her room up stairs. Both women died instantly and he rushed out on the street and tried to end his career by shooting himself in the head twice but only made a wound which caused paralysis of his left limbs. He recovered from his wounds, was tried at the next term of court and was found guilty of murder of the first degree.

The execution took place in the Centre county jail on Thursday, Feb. 20th, 1890, under Sheriff Robert Cooke. The scaffold was built by Samuel Gault and during the time it was being erected, Hopkins became much interested, as he could hear the carpenters at work, and by aid of a mirror could gain a view of the operations. He frequently spoke to the workmen, and in a peculiar manner urged them to make it "good and strong." When it was completed, the day prior to the execution, he was permitted to examine the structure and, being a carpenter, carefully examined every point and said it was strong enough to hang a bull. Next he took a look at his coffin; this unnerved him and his limbs trembled. He inquired of the undertaker as to the process of embalming his body and seemed interested in all the details.

He had an abundance of spiritual advice, had professed a change of heart, and claimed to be prepared to meet his doom. He slept well the last night, and in the morning ate a hearty breakfast. At ten he partook of a turkey dinner, which was furnished at his request. He said he deserved his fate, but that he committed the crime under great excitement. When the time for the execution arrived he marched to the scaffold without any hesitation and made a short address. When the drop was sprung the rope broke; the limp, unconscious body fell to the ground. Hopkins was carried up again, a second noose was adjusted and the second drop was more successful.

One of the most dastardly, brutal and cowardly crimes ever committed in the State was the killing of Miss Clara Price by Alfred Andrews, which took place in Burnside township, Centre county on the 27th of November 1889. On that day Miss

SHERIFF H. S. TAYLOR

Clara Price left the house of Eugene Meeker, in Burnside township, to go to Karthaus, about two miles distant, to do some shopping and visit her parents.

She was seen passing down that road that morning by different persons. Some few minutes after, a man wearing a black derby hat and light colored suit with short coat was seen walking down the road in the same direction. Several persons saw him and noticed a peculiarity in his walk and others recognized him as Alfred Andrews, a young man who had lived at Karthaus some time before. The last person who saw Clara going down the road that morning was Mrs. Watson, who lived in the last house from where the deed was committed. When she saw Clara last, she noticed the same man going the same direction and a short distance behind.

A short distance on the road enters the woods and winds about. That morning James Marstellar, William Oswalt and James Bechdel went down that road and when a mile beyond Watson's house and in the woods, they found the body of the girl lying in the middle of the road. She lay face downward and blood came from her mouth. The body was still warm but she was dead. Everything indicated that there had been a scuffle and the girl broke loose and while running away was shot down.

A half an hour later Andrews was seen at Moyer's lumber job about a mile distant and pretended to be after work but left without seeing the foreman. From there he went on to his home, Brisbin, Clearfield county.

Detective Harry Simler of Philipsburg, arrested Alfred Andrews at his home in Brisbin, the following Sunday and he was at once brought to Bellefonte and held for trial.

The trial of Andrews took place at January term of court 1890. Excitement ran high and the town was thronged with people for several days interested in the outcome—some fearing even violence should there be a failure in the verdict.

The execution of Andrews took place Wednesday, May 9th, 1890 under Sheriff Robert Cook. The trial of Andrews was one of the most remarkable events in our court. No one saw the deed committed, and his conviction was secured purely upon circumstantial evidence in which the late Hon. John H. Orvis was leading counsel. He wove around the man a network that was so complete and convincing that the jury had little difficulty in arriving at a verdict. His address to the jury to this day is remembered and commented upon as being a masterpiece in its line.

Shortly after the trial Andrews made a complete confession, in which he declared that the crime in its very details occurred precisely as Mr. Orvis proved it in court and presented it to the jury. Andrews soon professed Christianity and at times became "happy" under his strong religious fervor.

The night before the execution he asked to see his coffin, and the rope by which he he was to be hanged. He was pleased with the coffin; the rope also interested him and he placed it around his neck to see how it would fit. Andrews enjoyed a sound sleep, ate a hearty breakfast and spent the last hours in religious exercises with his advisors. Contrary to expectation, he went to the scaffold without a sign of fear and from it he read a chapter in the scriptures and addressed the spectators upon the importance of a Christian life. He regretted the crime and among other things said, "I trust I may meet the blessed girl whose life I have stolen from the world. May I meet her in Heaven and clasp her hands and say, 'I know you.'" As his limbs were being pinioned he kissed Sheriff Cook good bye and thanked him and Deputy Wilson for the kindness they had shown him. This time the drop fell the execution was more successful.

THE LAST EFFORT.

On last Friday Henry C. Quigley Esq., and District Attorney W. G. Runkle went to Harrisburg and on Saturday morning they appeared before the Governor and Mr. Quigley made an appeal to the Chief Executive for a reprieve of thirty days in order that a commission be appointed to inquire into the question of Ira Green's sanity. After this argument the Governor informed Mr. Quigley that he would not interfere with the execution of Green unless the court of Centre county would appoint a commission of lunacy to inquire into the sanity of Ira Green. If the Centre county court would appoint a commission he (the Governor) would, under these circumstances, grant a thirty day respite. Mr. Quigley returned to Bellefonte and began the work of carrying out the instructions of Governor Pennypacker, and worked up until 12 o'clock Saturday night getting matters in shape. A petition was drawn up and signed by William Green, father of the unfortunate young man, stating that his son was positively insane. The matter was then presented to Hon. Ellis L. Orvis, who refused to have anything to do with it from the fact that he was one of the attorneys for the Commonwealth. when the case was tried and the young men were found guilty. This ended the case here; but Monday afternoon Judge Voris Auten of Northumberland county, arrived in Bellefonte to hold court during this week. When court opened at 2 o'clock the matter was taken up before Judge Auten. The Commonwealth was represented by E. R. Chambers and District Attorney W. G. Runkle, assisted by N. B. Spangler, who was District Attorney when the case was tried. The case for the defendents was argued by H. C. Quigley and Clement Dale, Esq. The main argument made by the attorneys for the defendent was that at the time of trial public opinion was so aroused against the defendents that witnesses who knew Green was insane were afraid to take the stand and swear to the fact. Now that public sentiment, not being so radical against Green, these parties would testify in his behalf.

After listening to the arguments Judge Auten delivered the following decree—refusing to interfere:

BY THE COURT:—

It appears that the crime for which Ira Green was indicted was committed in the month of July, 1904; that he was tried at the August term of Court of Oyer and Terminer of same year and convicted of murder in the first degree. It further appears that an application was made for a new trial which was refused. That subsequently thereto an appeal was taken to the Supreme Court and after argument and due consideration the judgment of the Court of Oyer and Terminer of Centre County was affirmed. That later an application was made to the Board of Pardons for commutation of sentence and that that Body refused to interfere on behalf of the Defendant. The date of execution of said Ira Green was then fixed by the Governor of Pennsylvania to take place on Tuesday, May 9th, 1905.

Counsel for Petitioner admit that at no stage of the proceedings, prior to this application, was the defense of insanity set up or interposed.

We do not think this application is a matter of right, but it is discretionary with the Court to which it is made.

Some question has arisen as to the proper Act of Assembly under which this application should be drawn, but we are not disposed to stand upon technicality. It appears, however, that the recent applications of this nature have been drawn under the Act of 1874, instead of the Act of 1869, under which the present petition is drawn.

It occurs to us as being rather strange that notwithstanding nearly a year has elapsed since the commission of this crime, the Court should be called upon now for the first time to interpose on behalf of this unfortunate young man on account of his mental condition.

We have no criticism to make of those who present and insist upon this application. Having the life of Ira Green largely in their keeping they no doubt conceived it to be their professional duty to do all in their power to save him from the death penalty. However, we cannot see our way clear at this date to grant the prayer of the petitioner.

Counsel for Applicant state that the Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, when interviewed on behalf of this petitioner by Counsel for Ira Green on Saturday last, stated that he might extend the date of execution if a Commission in Lunacy were appointed.

The Governor of this Commonwealth is Copious showers have come to refresh the earth and further the growth of vegetation, which is beautiful. The grass and grain fields are delightfully green, the trees are being decked with fair blossoms and the apple, especially, plentiful in this community, covering the steep hills, remind us of he who planted those trees whose hands are resting from the toils of eighty-six years and whose works remain as evidence of a well spent life; no one who was about him will fail to remember some kindness received at the hands of Wm. Eugene Hall, whom we thought to be recovering; is reported to be worse and will not be home for some time to come, The parents and friends at home have our sincere sympathy in their trying hours.

Miss Jennie Fisher came home on Friday evening after an absence of eight weeks; she leaves her sister in New Jersey, Mrs. Holmes, restored to health and Jennie is much improved by her stay, though she thinks Unionville very quiet and dull, after a week's stay in New York, where she visited her brother.

On Sunday evening the sermon preached by Rev. Bergen was of a remarkable character, and well worth passing on to others, who were not so fortunate as to be present, though a goodly number were present, his text was "Feed my Lambe," which was well handled from every standpoint, parents were urged to greater activity in looking after the spiritual welfare of their children, to bring them up in the church and especially so conduct their home training that it may serve as a protecting power around them as they go out into the world to assume the responsibilities of life, Others than parents were instructed to help in the training of the future generations, young people were advised to prepare themselves thoroughly for their future responsible position as parents, and we can very readily see from the drift of some of our "Young Americans" today that more care is positively needed in this direction.

The executive committee of the Centre County C. E. Union met in the W. C. T. U., parlor in Petrikin Hall of Bellefonte on Saturday afternoon, and two of our residents, the President Mr. J. A. Pratt and Secretary, Nannie Fisher attended, important matters concerning the county work was discussed, and plans laid for furthering the same. The committee asks for the hearty co-operation of all Endeavorers and friends of Christian Endeavor in the county. Also your prayers for Divine guidance and Grace to carry on the work according to Gods will.

THE EXECUTION OF GREEN - DILLEN.

fully empowered to call to his aid the Lunacy Commission of the State Board of Charities, or to appoint a special commission to inquire into the sanity of Ira Green.

The application for appointment of commission is refused.

By the Court,
VORIS AUTEN,
Specially presiding.

After Judge Auten's decree, dismissing the application for a commission on lunacy, Rev. Cox delivered the message to the condemned men. Dillen took it with the calmness of a Christian soul on the brink of eternity, while Green took it with a spirit of utter indifference, and after exchanging a few words with his heartbroken parents who were sitting in the corridor, reaching for a cigar he jocosely remarked: "Well, if I can't do anything else, I'll smoke." Thus vanished the last hope of interference in behalf of the condemned men.

LET THIS CUP PASS FROM US.

It is hoped that if ever there is another man to be hanged for murder committed in Centre county, the execution may take place in the penitentiary as is the case in New York, Ohio and other neighboring states.

It is, at best a relic of barbarism, and if men must be killed in return for taking life, let them be removed to the proper place of execution and save localities the heartaches which come to those who do not enjoy seeing others suffer.

The morbid curiosity exhibited by some men to see these executions has been a mystery to us all our life. It is not an exhibition of courage, for courage is a quality of mind which enables one to encounter danger. It is not on account of any moral obligation except with those who have to perform, by order of law, the unpleasant task of taking that which they could not give and cannot restore.

What then is it? It some one will tell us we will cease to think that some people still believe that heaven was built on pride and hell on spite.

Bills Recently Approved by Governor.

The following are among the bills of general interest approved by Governor Pennypacker:

Making it unlawful for boys under sixteen years of age to frequent public pool rooms, billiard rooms, bowling saloons and ten pin alleys.

Providing that vacancies in the office of the county treasurer shall be filled by appointment of the governor until the next general election.

Empowering courts of common pleas to determine disputes as to the reasonableness of license fees to be paid municipalities by telegraph, telphone or light and power companies.

Providing that when any person claiming or having or having an apparent interest in or title to real estate but not having been in possession for twenty-one year next prior to date of any proceedings commenced by virtue of this act or unknown or being known their residence cannot be ascertained that rule may be had upon such persons requiring them to bring action of ejectment to such lands within six months of service of the rule.

When the Squadrons Meet.

Tokio, May 8.—Assuming that Vice Admiral Rejestvensky meditates a speedy junction of his squadron with Vice Admiral Nebogatoff's division, it is belived here that the meeting of the ships may be expected by Tuesday, May 9, the speed of Nebogatoff's division being only about seven knots an hour. These ships are believed to be in want of coal and stores, and their deficiencies probably will be supplied by Vice Admiral Rojestvensky at some friendly port after the two admirals effect a junction.

The future movements of the Russian Pacific squadron is a matter of speculation here, although the delay of Rejestvensky on the Indo-China coast has raised doubt as to his purpose to move northwarn rnd risk an engagement at an early date.

Vhe Vladivostok torpedo boat destroysrs have not been reported and it is held that they were captured.

CENTENNIAL ANNIVERSARY!

Of the Death of the German Poet Schiller

EXERCISES WERE FINE

In Philadelphia Commemorative Exercises Took Place in Fairmount Park—50,000 Present.

SERVICES WILL LAST SEVERAL DAYS

Philadelphia, May 8.—The observance of the centennial anniversary of the death of Frederick Von Schiller, the German poet, by the German singing societies and all other German societies in the city began yesterday and will continue until Thursday. Commerative exercises took place yesterday afternoon at the Schiller monument near the centennial exposition building in Fairmount Park. The weather was fine and fully fifty thousand persons were present.

The exercises were preceded by a short parade from the grand driveway in Fairmount Park to the site of the monument, All the German singing societies of the city and other organizations whose members came from the various German states, were in line.

The representatives of each of the German states placed flowers on the monument and the head of the statue of Schiller was crowned with a laurel wreath The exercises were presided over by Albert Schoenhut, president of the Conitatters's Volksfestverein. Addressed were made by Prof. K. D. Jessen, of the Bryn Mawr college, and Prof. Daniel B. Schumway, of the University of Pennsylvania A chorus of 100 voices accompanied by an orchestra of 100 pieces sang several selections from Schiller's works.

A feature of the five days' celebration will be the production of the first time in this country of Schiller's "Wallenstein" at the Academy of Music.

Vienna, May 8.—Festivities incident to the memory of the poet Schiller's death are in progress here and elsewhere throughout Austria where the German language is spoken. This morning several thousand school children marched to the Schiller monument in Vienna, sang and listened to addresses and recitations. The observance will be spread over several days under the auspices of secret societies and will include public receptions, productions of dramas from Schiller's works, and torch light processions. Today observervances will be held in the Vienna city hall.

TO RENEW EFFORTS TO HAVE NAN RELEASED.

New York, May 8.—Counsel for Nan Patterson today will renew their efforts to have the girl admitted to bail. District attorney Jerome, who has been absent from the city since the trial of Miss Patterson, is expected to be at his office tomorrow and will be asked to take up the case immediately. If the district attorney will not agree to the release of the woman on her own recognizance he will be asked to fix the amount of bail at a nominal sum. Failing to obtain a compliance with the request for bail, the attorneys say they will make application to the court for a writ of habeas corpus. Miss Patterson is bright and cheerful and declared yesterday her belief that this would be her last Sunday in the Tombs.

It is understood that the bondsman whom Miss Patterson's lawyers have announced is ready to act as surety for her in any reasonable amount, is Ed. S. Sparenberg, a retired pawnbroker of this city. Mr. Sparenberg is an intimate friend of one of the Patterson girl's attorneys and it was in this way his interest was aroused in her case.

Millions of Money, Millions

The way the Standard Oil Co. made their millions was by selling us coal oil. Every time we consume a gallon of coal oil we add to their millions. They have a net profit of over 100 per cent. on every gollon of oil we consume. Electric light and city gas are both sold at over 100 per cent. clear profit. If you buy a and make your own light, which is a beautiful, soft white light, and only costs about one-third as much as city gas or electric light It is cheaper than coal oil. The Sunlight "Omega" light machine works automatically, no trouble and so simple to operate that anyone can learn how to make the light in ten minutes. If you live in the country, city or town you can have light that is better, purer, cheaper, less dangerous and less troublesome than any light in existance.

Sunlight "Omega" Acetylene Light Machine

Acetylene Fixtures, Chandeliers. etc., furnished at cost. Any church in my district who will light with acetylene, can have a contribution from me of 10 per cent. of their machine. Inquiries promptly answered, correspondence solicited, estimates furnished upon application.

COLOR OF THE SUN.

What Would Happen If It Were Other Than What It Is.

A German astronomer has published some interesting observations on the theoretical effects of a change in the color of the sun. It is amazing to consider the possibilities if our sun were green, blue or red instead of what it is. If it were blue, there would be only two colors in the world—blue and black. If it were red, then everything would be red or black. If it were yellow, everything would be yellow or black. Every one knows that the light of our sun consists of six colors, and the reason things are different hues is that some swallow up five of the colors and reflect only one. Thus we have primoses yellow because they absorb all but the yellow, roses red because they absorb all but the red, violets purple because they absorb everything but red and blue, a mixture of which two colors forms purple.

In the event of the sun being red, roses, blood, red ink and all other things that are now red would reflect it. So also would snow, the lily and all things that are now white, but these would, of course, be red. Everything else would swallow up the red light and appear quite black. Grass, for instance, would be black as ink, and so would the blue of the sky, but the white clouds would be red. The same kind of thing would happen if the sun were blue. Everything now blue or white would be blue and everything else black. The whole sky, clouds and all, would be blue. The grass this time would be blue, not black, for it reflects both blue and yellow. Hair would be all black, the red of the lips would be black, and the rest of the face would be a cloudy blue. If the sun were green, we would have a little variety. Things that are now yellow would still be yellow, things that are blue would be blue, and things that are green would still be green, but there would be no reds, purples, orange, pinks or any of those cheery hues that make the world look so bright.—New York Herald.

HUGO AND HIS WIFE.

Vehemence of the Author and His Better Half's Placidity.

M. Paul Stapfer in the Mercure de France quotes a fragment of Victor Hugo's after dinner monologues. The pose of the man accustomed to an expectation of big utterances, of metaphysical suggestions, is well conveyed in the quotations. Victor Hugo, it is hardly necessary to observe, was distinctly a prophet in his own country as well as abroad. By 9 in the evening, says M. Stapfer, Victor Hugo had warmed to his work. He burst forth:

"How poor, how small, how absurd atheism is! God exists. I am more sure of his existence than I am of my own. If God lends me sufficient length of life I want to write a book showing how necessary to the soul prayer is—how necessary and how efficacious. Personally I never pass four hours without prayer. I pray regularly every morning and evening. If I wake in the night I pray. What do I pray for? Strength. I know what is right and what is wrong, but I realize my imperfections and that of myself I have not the strength to resist evil. God surrounds and upholds us. We are in him. From him we have life, movement, being. All is created by him. But it is not true to say that he has created the world. He creates it unceasingly. He is the soul of the universe. He is the infinite I. Are you asleep, Adele!"

The abrupt accusation was hurled at Mrs. Hugo. Since dinner she had been sitting silently in an armchair, rather huddled and drawn up in attitude, her chin resting on her chest, her hands folded on her stomach and her eyelids closed. Her regular breathing had been pleasantly interrupted. Roused abruptly, injured innocence protested vigorously in her manner, "You dear great thing, how could you possibly imagine I should go to sleep while you were talking?"

The Potato.

The circumnavigator Francis Drake has the credit of introducing the potato to Europe, but the Spaniards had brought it with the tomato from the Andes some time before, and it was established there and in Italy, where they called it tartufoli, long before Sir Walter Raleigh shipped his cargo, in 1626, from Virginia to England. According to Humboldt, it has been cultivated in England since 1684, in Saxony since 1728 and since 1738 in Prussia.

How the Trouble Began.

"I am going to compile a book of my baby's smart sayings," declared proud Mrs. Noowed. "What do you think would make an appropriate title?"

"'Borrowed Brightness,'" suggested Miss Sulfuric.

This was why they stopped speaking. —Louisville Courier-Journal.

TRAVELING IN RUSSIA.

The Sleeping Cars and the Steamers on the Volga.

The sofas of our staterooms on the Volga river steamer, while pleasant enough to sit on, were devoid of the other trappings which in these degenerate days are thought necessary to a night's rest, and we had not yet learned the peculiarities of Muscovite travel.

The old fashioned Russian travels with his own gear and makes himself comfortable according to his own ideas, and they are by no means narrow. A place to sleep on is provided. The rest he brings. On the Russian sleeping cars those who have not their own bedclothes and who wish to undress and go to bed in the American fashion can have all that is requisite for 50 cents. The porter on demand brings a linen sack, whose seal he cuts in your presence with considerable ceremony and from which he produces a pillow, blankets and sheets of beautiful fine linen. This was the system on our boat, and our minds were soon at rest.

I afterward inspected the lower decks of the ship and saw the way the third class passengers were cared for. It was primitive, but clean and wholly suited to the customs of the people. Each person was provided with a spotless board shelf to sleep on by night and sit on by day, and he made himself as happy or as uncomfortable as he chose. Most of the passengers seemed to take traveling as a migration, to judge by the pots and kettles, furniture, blankets and clothing stowed about them—"everything but the kitchen stove," that important but dangerous article being replaced by the ship's galley, with its bountiful hot water always ready for the eternal teamaking.—Captain T. Bentley Mott, U. S. A., in Scribner's.

Safer Where He Was.

The man who had been arrested for having eight wives was awakened by a fellow prisoner, who hoarsely whispered:

"Come on, sport. We've got some false keys and unlocked the cell doors, and we're all going to escape."

"Look here," said the octagamist desperately, "unless you promise me that when you all get out of the jail you will lock the doors carefully again I'll raise a racket and expose your project."

"Why, what's wrong? Don't you want to escape?"

"Escape! You lock me in here and go on about your business. Don't you know these steel bars are all that separate me from my eight wives?"

GODPARENTS.

An Ancient Institution, Doubtless of Jewish Origin.

We must doubtless look to the Jews for the origin of godfathers and godmothers. The use of them in the primitive church is so early that it is not easy to fix a time for their beginning. Some of the most ancient fathers make mention of them, and through all the successive ages afterward we find the use of them continued without any interruption. By a constitution of Edmund, archbishop of Canterbury, 1236, and in a synod held at Worcester, 1240, a provision was made that there should be for every male child two godfathers and one godmother and for every female one godfather and two godmothers. King Henry VIII., referring to the Princess Elizabeth, says:

My lord of Canterbury,
I have a suit which you must not deny me—
That is, a fair young maid that yet wants baptism.
You must be godfather and answer for her.
—"Henry VIII.," Act 5, Scene 2.

A constitution of 1281 makes provision for a Christian name being changed at confirmation. This is practically a renaming of the child. The manner in which it was done was for the bishop to use the name in the invocation and afterward for him to sign a certificate that he had so confirmed a person by such new name. It is possible that this practice might have been in Shakespeare's mind when he wrote:

Call me but love, and I'll be new baptized.
Henceforth I never will be Romeo.
—"Romeo and Juliet," Act 2, Scene 2.
—Westminster Review.

A Wonderful Knife.

The collection of a famous firm of cutlers in Sheffield, England, includes what is by some considered to be the most valuable knife in the world. It is large enough to fit in the pocket of none but a giant, and it contains seventy-five blades, which close up like those of an ordinary knife. Each of the larger blades is elaborately engraved, and among the subjects of these strange pictures are views of Sheffield college, the city of York, Windsor castle, Arundel castle and a score of other famous scenes. The hafts are of mother-of-pearl, carved with great skill. On one side the artist has depicted a stag hunt and on the other a boar hunt.

For Over Sixty Years.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used for over sixty years by millions of mothers for their children while teething with perfect success. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cure wind colic, and is the best remedy for diarrhœa. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Sold by all druggists in every part of the world. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup" and take no other kind.

Life at Stake

Somewhere in the world life is at stake every minute of the day. Right at our own doors, perhaps, is going on a struggle as grim and fierce as any fight or flight on record. You hear the hollow tearing cough; see the ooze of blood which tells of the wounded lungs; mark the emaciated body and hectic cheek, and know a life is at stake.

The use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has saved many a life in just such a crisis. It cures obstinate, deep-seated coughs, stops the hemorrhage, strengthens "weak" lungs, and restores the emaciated body to its normal weight and strength.

There is no alcohol in the "Discovery," and it is absolutely free from opium, cocaine, and all other narcotics.

"I desire to send you this brief, unsolicited testimonial," writes Rev. Joseph H. Fesperman, Barium Springs, Iredell Co., N. C. "In 1898 one of my daughters was suffering on account of a severe cough, hectic fever, wasting of flesh and other symptoms of diseased lungs. I promptly gave her Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery with gratifying success, and she now enjoys excellent health. This experience caused me to recommend Dr. Pierce's medicines to my neighbors, who, without exception, used them with favorable results."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, in paper covers, is sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps to pay expense of mailing only, or if cloth bound volume is desired send 31 stamps. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

ADVERTISE FOR BIDS

For Leasing of the Philadelphia Gas Works

THE MAYOR'S MESSAGE

Says it Would be Improvident to Pass the Proposed Ordinance Extending the Lease.

SOME OF HIS REASONS ARE GIVEN.

Philadelphia, May 5,—The strong opposition aroused to the leasing of the city gas plant to the United Gas Improvement company has caused a halt in the proceedings for at least ten days. Both chambers of city councils adopted resolutions directing the committee on finance of councils to advertise in all the daily papers of Philadelphia that bids for leasing the gas works will be received until May 15, and that bids be accompanied by a certified check in the sum of $250,000.

The resolution was introduced in select council by Chas. Ember and was passed unanimously, without a word of debate. In common council an amendment was offered to the resolution changing the date from May 15 to June 15 and including the names of New York and Boston. The amendment was defeated by a vote of 79 to 2, and the resolution was adopted

Mayor Weaver Thursday sent a special message to councils on the subject of the gas lease. In it he says it would be most improvident to pass the proposed ordinance extending the lease seventy-five years, for $25,000,000 Continuing the mayor says:

"Under the present lease the United Gas Improvement company is paying to the city three cents on every thousand feet of gas consumed, and in 1908 this will be increased to 15 cents; in 1913 to 20 cents, and in 1918 to 25 cents. Under it the city will receive at the very lowest estimate over $30,000,000, in these payments before the expiration of the present thirty years' lease; but in case it should be your judgment that a new case should be made after the expiration of the first ten years (1907,) at which time the city has the right to cancel the lease, by paying back to the United Gas Improvement company what they had laid out for improvements and betterments, then surely this should only be done after proper advertisement, and then by an award to the highest bidder.

"Up to the present time the United Gas Improvement company claims to have expended about $10,000,000 in improvements and betterments, etc., and there is no doubt that a lease of the gas works for any considerable length of time is worth a very large amount of money.'

More than a thousand persons gathered on the north plaza of the city hall Thursday expecting to see some sort of a demonstration prior to the meeting of councils late Thursday afternoon, and they were disappointed, While the crowd was assembled an unknown man mounted one of the equestrian statues on the plaza and harangued the crowd against the lease.

Don't be Afraid of Originality.

Do not be afraid of being original, even eccentric. Be an independent, self reliant new man, not just one more individual in the world. Do not be a copy of your grandfather, of your father or of your neighbor. That is as foolish as for a violet to try to be like a rose or for a daisy to ape a sunflower. Nature has given each a peculiar equipment for its purpose. Every man is born to do a certain work in an original way. If he tries to copy some other man or to do do some other man's work he will be an abortion, a misfit, a failure.

Do not imitate even your heroes. Scores of young clergymen attempted to make their reputation by imitating Beecher. They copied his voice and conversation and imitated his gestures and habits, but they fell as far short of the great man's power as the chromo falls short of the master-piece. Where are those hundreds of imitators now? Not one of them has ever made any stir in the world.

Poisons That We Eat.

Of the chemicals in general use in the preservation of food, coal-tar dyes are among the most common and the most dangerous, as is shown by experiments and by the deaths caused by their consumption. There is no American who has not eaten these dyes; none who has not felt their injurious effects. The baby eats the dye in candy; the child in butter, jams and preserves, the soda fountain beverages; the grown person in coffee, butter, jellies, sauces, canned goods and nearly all kinds of soft and hard drinks. It would be a difficult undertaking to find a pound of butter on the market not colored with coal-tar dye. Catsups, the most adulterated of foods, are frequently made entirely from pumpkin or from tomato pulp colored with the dye. It is this that gives the rich, red appearance to the sauce. It is used in all cheap grades of preserves, canned goods, soups, jams, etc. Nearly all colored candy contains it. In fact, the candy trust is the principal patron of the big aniline and coal-tar dye corporation.

In a bottle of catsup recently purchased in New York was found enough aniline dye to color sixty-four square inches of white nun's veiling. A small jar of a concoction labeled 'plum jelly" yielded enough coal-tar dye to solidly color two hundred and fifty six square inches of white cloth. In the bureau of chemistry are kept a number of large pieces of cloth dyed from the different colorings extracted from cans and bottles of food products. Similar pieces of cloth dyed from canned and bottled products were exhibited at the World's Fair. Sheets of wool and silk five feet square have been dyed with the artificial coloring found in small quantity of strawberry syrups, catsups, jellies and port wines. Most of the soda fountain beverages are made most entirely of coal-tar dye, acids and artificial flavors, without containing the smallest particle of the fruits for which they are named.

Santo Domingo Today.

Mr, Winthrop Packard, writing in Collier's for May 6, quotes the President of the Republic as saying: "It is with sorrow that I say it, but Santo Domingo is a republic only in name. I hope to make it one in reality, but the condition of the people at present prevents. There are in the world three conditions of society—the savage, the barbarous and the civilized. My people are in a large part in a state of the semi-savage, at most only emerging into the better state"

"To understand political conditions on the island," says Mr. Parkard, "it is necessary to keep this statement continually in mind. Not that there are no educated and refined people here; there are many such such, but the rule holds good for the great majority. Outside the seaport towns, and a few larger ones in the interior, the percentage of illiteracy is practically one hundred, and the people know no more of what takes place in the outside world or in neighboring districts than do the tribes of Central Africa.

"In fact, tribes is a good name to apply to them. There is in each little community some man of force and physical prowess who controls his neighbors. He is known as the 'Jefe' or Chief. He in turn owes a semi-allegiance to a bigger man—Often the Governor of the province. Above the Governor is again another head, perhaps the President, perhaps Jimenez or Vasquez, Rodgeriguez or Wos-y-Gil, according to the personal preference of the individual."

Strictly Genuine.

Most of the patent medicine testimonials are probably genuine. The following notice recently appeared in the Atchison, (Kan.,) Globe: "Joe Tack, a well known engineer, running on the Missouri Pacific between Wichita and Kiowa, lately appeared in a big one, with a picture, and when he was in this office to-day, we asked him about it. He says he had terrible pains in his stomach, and thought he had cancer. His druggist recommended Kodol and he says it cured him. He recommended it to others, who were also cured." Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests what you eat and cures all stomach troubles. Just as surely as the sun shines your stomach can be brought back to its original pure condition and life sweetened by this lasting and truly the greatest digestant known. Sold by Green's Pharmacy.

Who is His Sister

E. H. Minsker, who was born and raised in Clinton county, committed suicide in Seattle, Wash., Saturday, April 22nd, by shooting himself. A letter found upon his person was from a sister living in Bellefonte, but as the last name was not given her identity has not been disclosed. No reason can be assigned for the man's act, as just the day previous he purchased a lodging house for $1,500. He was about 40 years of age and unmarried.

GOVERNOR SIGNS RIPPER

Philadelphia Council to Elect Officers.

DIVIDES THE POWER

Long Opinion on His Actions—Power Shown to be Dangerous—Might Use it Corruptly.

RADICAL CHANGES TO BE AVOIDED.

Harrisburg, May 6.—Governor Pennypacker Thursday signed one of the bills known as Philadelphia "ripper" and vetoed the two companion bills. The bill signed provides for the election by City Councils, instead of appointment by the Mayor, of the Directors of Public Works and Public Safety. The bills vetoed provided for the election of the Directors of Public Supplies and Public Health and Charities. The bill signed goes into effect the first Monday of April, 1907, when the next Mayor takes office.

The Governor comments on his action in a long opinion in which he discusses his action on the three bills. He says that there can be no element of unconstitutionality in these bills as in the former "ripper" bills as the elements are entirely antithetical inasmuch as no one is ripped out of office, and since the bill does not become effective before the first Monday in April, it gives an opportunity to the people through their representatives in the Legislature to repeal the law.

POWER SHOWN TO BE DANGEROUS.

By citing historical examples of the government of Charlemagne and Abraham Lincoln, the Bourbons and the revolution in France, the Stuarts and Cromwell in England, the claims that experience shows the concentration of power to be more dangerous than its discrimination, and as such to be avoided. In this country, the Governor says, that both views obtain, though for the last forty years the tendency has been for the concentration of power in national affairs and the division of responsibility in state and municipal affairs.

He says that "the most thoughtful observers and those most familiar concede that it would be better for the administration of public affairs in Philadelphia if the power, which is given by existing laws to the Mayor could be in certain directions, at least, lessened."

By his control of from seven to twelve thousand offices the Mayor has ample opportunity to exercise his power corruptly, the Governor thinks, as well as to use his power for political effect, and for the reason that Philadelphia has such a large delegation in the Legislature, this condition is of interest to the Commonwealth.

He refers to a number of Philadelphia Mayors who attempted political powers through their offices and suggests this as a reason for apprehension.

The Governor says that it is admitted that the present is not the most satisfactory form of city government in Philadelphia, but claims that he has been urged to veto the present bills. In justifying his action the Governor says that the veto power of his office was intended to be used only in the event that a bill passed the Legislature with less than a two-thirds vote. But since the present bill was passed by the Legislature by considerably more than a two-thirds majority, in which the Philadelphia delegation was almost unanimously represented, to veto the bill would be an exercise of power not intended by the constitution.

A radical and sudden change from one form of Government to another is always attended by disturbances and disadvantages, the Governor believes. "In my view," he says, "it would be wiser to lessen the power of the Mayor, It would be wiser not to take it away."

Because the Director of Public Works, who has charge of large contracts for which councils make appropriations, it would be better, the Governor thinks, to have this officer controlled by councils, though in the matter of the Director of Public Safety, who has charge of the safety of the citizens, the Governor says, that Officer should be an appointee of the Mayor.

Thus, with these views, the Governor feels at a disadvantage, and had there been four bills, one for each department, instead of the present arrangements, action would not be so difficult.

"Nevertheless," the Governor concludes, "a modification of the proposed plan, it is possible to make by approving the bill which changes the method of selecting the directors of the departments of Public Works and Public Safety, and disapproving the two bills which change the method of selecting the Directors of the Departments of Public Health and Charities and Supplies."

Better than the "Regulated" Saloon.

Striking testimony to the efficacy of the religious work of the Young Men's Christian Association in wiping out the drink habit among railroad employees, mechanics, and other shop workmen, will be found in the following extracts from reports Engineers, firemen ane train hands, after being converted in the Association rooms, have quit drinking, have become thoroughly efficient employees, and received merited advancement through their change of life; homes have been remade and families reunited.

One man in a Pennsylvania town had been twice suspended for drunkenness He paid his membership fee fifteen months ago, and remarked as he did so; "I am through with whiskey from now on." He worked steadily ever since.

There are at present entire train crews who formerly spent their evenings, especially after pay day, in drinking and carousing, but now spend their leisure in the Association buildings, attracted by the bowling alleys and billiards.

One man writes: "Since I have been in Association work I have individually and in connection with committees closed a number of saloons which were disobeying the law."

A New York secretary says: "There is a soloon opposite our building. In former years the proprietor made money. He is now losing and is anxious to sell out."

Another writes: "Since the opening of this department last June one saloon closed its doors within two weeks. There are nine saloons within a stone's throw of the Association. We are working on these."

One engineer writes: "A few years ago I was an habitual drunkard. My home was a hell on earth. Sometimes I came in from a trip, on which I had earned $3.60. Before I got home $2 would have been spent in saloons. One day a man persuaded me to go to the Y. M. C. A. rooms. I went out of curiosity. That was nine years ago. My whole life was changed on that day, and I have not been in a saloon since."

A Virginian writes: "Since the shop Bible classes have been conducted in the railroad shops, a saloon oppisite the gate has been closed. It formerly did a thriving business."

A trainman writes: "The officials gave me chances to straighten up and quit drinking, but I always failed to do so and was finally dismissed from service. The Association got hold of me, changed my life, and I have been reinstated on the road and now have one of the best runs."

Down in Georgia one of the railroad Associations defeated the liquor element at the polls four to one. There are no saloons left in the town:

One man in Arkansas had taken the Keetey cure three times, without permanent results, but says since his conversion in the Association rooms he has had no desire whatever to drink.

Two saloons were recently closed in a Texas railroad town on account of the competition of the attraction of the Association rooms.

A saloon keeper in Arkansas recently said: "Since you opened your darned rooms I haven't drawn as many cents as I used to draw dollars."

A New York man writes: "When I came to this Association sixteen years ago the street from one of the shops to the building was lined with saloons. Four of these, after a struggle, closed their doors. I believe the honors are to be divided between the vigilant railroad officers and the Association which offered to the men a good substitute for the saloon."

Traveling is Dangerous.

Constant motion jars the kidneys which are kept in place in the body by delicate attachments. This is the reason that travelers, trainmen, street car men, teamsters and all who drive very much, suffer from kidney disease in some form. Foley's Kidney Cure strengthens the kidneys and cures all forms of kidney and bladder disease. Geo. E. Hausan, locomotive engineer, Lima, O., writes, "Constant vibration of the engine caused me a great deal of trouble with my kidneys, and I got no relief until I used Foley's Kidney Cure. Sold by C. M. Mrs. Catherine Gross, of Valentine St., says: "I cannot only recommend Doan's Kidney Pills from my experience but other members of our family have also tried them with beneficial results. I used them for backache and kidney ailments from which I had suffered for a long while

There was a dull, heavy, continuous pain through my loins accompained with headachees and I could find no relief. I tried many remedies before I heard of Doan's Kidney Pills and then sent to the Bush Block Drug Store and got a box. I used a few doses and found relief. I improved so rapidly that I continued taking them until my trouble left me entirely and I have had no return of it since."

DO YOU GET UP WITH A LAME BACK?

Kidney Trouble Makes You Miserable.

Almost everybody who reads the newspapers is sure to know of the wonderful cures made by Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy.

It is the great medical triumph of the nineteenth century; discovered after years of scientific research by Dr. Kilmer, the eminent kidney and bladder specialist, and is wonderfully successful in promptly curing lame back, kidney, bladder, uric acid troubles and Bright's Disease, which is the worst form of kidney trouble.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything but if you have kidney, liver or bladder trouble it will be found just the remedy you need. It has been tested in so many ways, in hospital work, in private practice, among the helpless too poor to purchase relief and has proved so successful in every case that a special arrangement has been made by which all readers of this paper who have not already tried it, may have a sample bottle sent free by mail, also a book telling more about Swamp-Root and how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. The regular fifty cent and dollar sizes are sold by all good druggists.

BRIEF MENTION

Short Items of Local Interest Gathered By The Way Side

—Lawn mowers are now needed on many lawns about town.

—The work of housecleaning is still in progress in many homes.

—Amateur gardeners are now placing bulbs of flowers in the ground.

—Straw hats have made their appearance and are already quite common.

—Clearfield is arranging for an old time 4th of July celebration this year.

—The next event to celebrate will be Memorial Day and the veterans are preparing for it.

—Hon. William C. Heinle was elected on Tuesday as a director of the Lock Haven State Normal.

—The state convention of the Knights of the Golden Eagle convened in York, Tuesday, May 9.

—Judge C. E. Rice of the Pennsylvania Superior Court, is seriously ill in Pittsburg, and his family has been summoned from Wilkes-Barre.

—Last Thursday two prisoners were taken to the Western penitentiary, they were accompanied by Mr. Philip Meyer and Mr. Sando.

—The signing of the new road law by the Governor a day or two ago, reduces the township and county expenses one-twelfth in comparison with the law of 1903. Under the former recent law, the county and the township each paid one-sixth of the cost, now each will pay one-eighth. The difference of these two fractions is one twenty fourth. It is to be hoped that at once some more good roads will be made in this county, —Wednesday afternoon John A. Daley and Harry Shreffler took Harry Kessinger and George Fultz to the Huntingdon Reformatory, They were accompanied as far as Tyrone by Sheriff Taylor, who was on his way to Clearfield on a business trip. Thursday noon Edson Fultz and Robert Ferenbaugh were taken to the Western penitentiary by Philip H. Meyer and William Sando, of Centre Hall. At Tyrone they were met by Sheriff Taylor, who accompanied them to Allegheny.

—Miss Lila Gates, of Tyrone, sold to John W. Gates, millionaire and railroad magnate of New York, a cane that was given to her father by the proprietor of the Bingham House, Philadelphia, sixty years ago. The cane contains a sword on which is engraved a man's head and face. Miss Gates valued it at $1,000, but John W. thought it worth a much larger sum and sent her a draft for $5,000. The cane will become the property of one of Mr. Gates' friends now in Europe. Miss Gates says the sale of the cane at the above price was to her a very pleasant surprise.

—The Academy improvements are progressing very satisfactory, thanks to the generosity of the Bellefonte friends of the institution and the old students from a distance. About four hundred dollars are needed yet to guarantee the completion of the plans as conceived by Oglesby Payne, of Philadelphia. The names of those contributing to this worthy enterprise will be recorded in the centennial history of the Academy. Many who are friendly to the Academy will regret when it is too late that they have not materially aided in this good work.

—Through the efforts and influence of Rev. R. Crittenden a much needed Sunday school has been organized and started in the school house on Halfmoon hill. Sunday their first meeting day was devoted to the election of officers and general planning of the school, which resulted in placing Henry Casper, Henry Holobaugh and Geo. Cathcart all in responsible positions. This school is called the Halfmoon Hill Union Bible school. It has bright promise of success and reaches children and young people that never attended the Sabbath schools in town.

—There is nothing more injurious to the welfare, the morals and the general appearance and reputation of any town than constant crowds of able bodied men and boys loafing on the streets. The habits of idleness engendered by this custom are most detrimental especially to the growing boy. If the loafers have no work or do nor care to seek any, at least they could employ time in active, healthful out door sports to much better advantage than by blocking thoroughfares and subjecting the passersby to untold annoyance and unpleasant comment. Then, again, it does not speak well for the business activities of a town when its streets are filled with idle irresponsible men and boys in working hours; while the moral condition of a community, where street loafing is not frowned upon, is certainly not apt to be of a high order. The old adage as to the working power of that threefold combination of idle hands, Satan and mischief, does not lose its point along with modern civilization.

—Recorder John C. Rowe is confined to his home on East Curtin street by illness.

—Grandmother Hazel, mother of Mr. Mike Hazel is critically ill at her home above Roopsburg.

—Mrs. George Israel Brown gave a "tea" Wednesday afternoon to a large number of her lady friends.

—The application of Philip Garbrick for a wholesale beer license in the West ward of Bellefonte has been withdrawn.

—Everybody seems to think that the Trail at the Lewis and Clark Exposition has a most appropriate name. Are you going to hit the Trail?

—Members of Co B. will be interested in knowing that Erie has been selected as the place for the encampment of the Second brigade, this summer.

—Coos County, Oregon, has a building at the Lewis and Clark Exposition that is larger than some of the state buildings at the St. Louis World's Fair.

—Beezer brothers, architects of Pittsburg, have completed the plans and will have charge of the erection of the new $100,000 building for the First National bank, of Tyrone.

—On Monday, May 1st, the various justices of the peace in the county elected at the February election, came to Bellefonte, were qualified and lifted their commissions.

—Panoramas of Yellowstone Falls, Yosemite Valley and the Grand Canyon of the Colorado are being set up in the Interior Department's space at the Lewis and Clark Exposition.

—Several rooms on the second floor of the new Y. M. C. A. building are being fitted up in order that the association may move into them in several weeks, and thus save the rent paid at their present location.

—One month from now the Lewis and Clark Exposition at Portland will be in full swing. President Goods promises that the Exposition will be complete in every detail by opening day, June 1.

—The Academy nine went to Huntingdon on Saturday and held the Juniata College nine down to three hits and three runs. The final score was 3-2 in favor of Juniata. This was a very creditable performance for the Academy boys on strange grounds.

—Mr. James K. Hughes wishes us to announce that next year all pupils of the Academy below the intermediate grade will be granted the privilege of one session of school The session for these younger pupils will close shortly after twelve o'clock.

—The largest piece of native copper to be exhibited at the Lewis and Clark Exposition is from a mine belonging to an Oregon woman. Mrs. Mary A. Booth is the principal owner of the Golden Standard mine in Josephine county, from which the huge piece of copper was taken.

—Don't tie your horses to shade trees. The trunks of many of the fine trees along our streets are badly marred by the bark having been bitten off in former years, and, no doubt, many young trees have been ruined in the past by such unthinking acts, —Supt. Rine and his force of workmen have completed the laying of that section of the twelve-inch water main between Bishop street and the Diamond. All connections have been made and the ditch filled up, a fact the business men along that section are heartily thankful for.

—We are very sorry to hear of the serious illness of Gilbert Wood, who is down with typhoid fever at the Presbyterian hospital in Philadelphia. He is a son of Rev, J. A. Wood Jr., pastor of the Methodist church at this place. Mr. Wood had just finished his course in the dental department of the University and had already begun work on an extra and difficult course.

—On Monday, pay day for the Nittany Iron company, the employees took up a collection and raised the sum of $119, which they took up and presented to their former fellow-workman, Mr. Wm. Daley, who the morning after Thanksgiving met with an accident by which he lost both limbs. This thoughtfulness on the part of the employees of the Nittany company is deserving of special commendation.

—The Clearfield Council have granted to the T. W. Philips Oil & Gas Co., of Butler, Pa., a franchise permitting them to furnish their product to Clearfield. This means that Clearfield will be heated and lighted with natural gas within the next year, as the franchise requires this speed. It will be piped from Armstrong county and Mahaffey, Grampian, Curwensville, Osceola and Philipsburg are likely to be served also.

—Prof. David O. Etters, '81, Supt of Public Schools of Bellefonte was elected County Superintendent of Schools at the meeting of School directors of Centre county held in Bellefonte last Tuesday. Prof. Etters is well qualified for the duties of the office, and with the help of those who elected him can accomplish much that will improve the condition of the schools of Centre county. Prof. Etters is making arrangements to move to State College to establish his residence there.—State College Times.

—Straw hats are slowly coming to the front.

—The robins and other birds now sing their early matins as the sun rises, and give the early listeners cheerful music.

—The State College Varsity team defeated Dickinson College base ball team on Beaver Field at State Friday afternoon by the score of 17 to zip.

—Samuel Wirts a former resident of Houserville, Centre county, died recently at his home in Dungarvin, Pa., at the advanced age of 84 years. Interment in the cemetery at Houserville.

—Some of the famous black swans of Australia may be swimming in the waters of Guild's Lake during the Lewis and Clark Exposition An effort is now being made to procure a number of these fine birds

—Rev. R. W. Illingsworth, well known to many of our readers, has accepted a call to become the pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Somerset Pa. He entered on his new field of labor the 1st of May.

—The enrollment of students at the West Chester State Normal school for the present it is said, exceeds that of any previous year in its history. Centre county is represented at it in the person of Miss Helen M. White, of Bellefonte.

—Rev. Dr. Laurie gave a very interesting talk on "Backsliding" in the Presbyterian church Sunday evening The service was enlivened by a duet by Mrs. J. C. Meyer and Miss Bessie Dorworth.

—Prof. Charles Lose, formerly of Philipsburg, has just been re elected superintendent of the Williamsport schools. The schools of that city were never in as fine condition as at present, which speaks well for Prof. Lose's management.

—Dr. S. M. Huff, of Milesburg, purchased the stock of H. Dill Loveland, bankrupt at Antes Fort, from J. B. Graham, trustee. The stock was appraised at $264 and was purchased at $525 upon order of the referee in bankruptcy. Dr Huff is a son-in-law of Mr. Loveland.

—The Department of Commerce and Labor is installing a much more representative exhibit at the Lewis and Clark Exposition than was possible at St. Louis last year. Under this department comes the United States Fish Commission, which will show the finest collection of living fishes ever brought together.

—W. C. C. Packer, of Lock Haven, is the possessor of an interesting heirloom in the form of a solid silver ladle, which he prizes very highly. The ladle was handed down from Mr. Packer's great-great grandmother, Mrs. William Jones, and is over 100 years old. The ladle was made in Fredericksburg, Va., from 19 silver half dollars, especially for Mrs. Jones, and bears the stamped name of the maker, I. Adams. Mrs. Jones willed the ladle to her daughter, who in turn presented it to her daughter, who before her death passed the ladle on to her son. It is so bright and well preserved that one would think it had left the silversmith but a short time ago. Six silver spoons which Mrs. Jones had made at the same time, each one from seven half dollar pieces, are also well preserved.

—In addition to the efficient assistance rendered to the postoffice inspectors by secret service men, who track suspects and aid in the arrests, the Department of Justice has issued instructions to the United States District Attorneys, where raids or arrests are made, to render every possible assistance to the representatives of the other departments. The co-operation of the detectives of two departments and the lawyers of a third will, in the estimation of the high officials, render the unbearable for lottery agents in this country and they are confident the evil will be thoroughly eradicated within a short time as a result of the drastic course now being pursued. Within the past few days the Postoffice Department has moreover, issued fraud orders against agents of the German State Lottery and Hungarian Lottery, both of which appear to have been doing a thriving business in the United States.

Mrs. M. J. Baney Dead.

After a prolonged illness of a complication of diseases incident to old age, Mrs. M. J. Baney, aged about 67 years, died Thursday morning at her home in Howard.

Mother Baney was a woman who when able, relieved the needy and visited the sick always lending a helping hand She was a faithful christian lady, one who was always ready and willing to stand up for her master. She leaves a host of friends to mourn her departure. She was a consistent member of the United Evangelical church of Howard, where the services will be held.

She is survived by the following children: Mrs. Kate Shilling, Mrs. Anna Kritzer, Samuel and John. Also two brothers, Samuel and Charles Houseman.

The funeral took place at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon. Interment in the Howard cemetery.

Death of George Hart.

George Hart, eldest son of the late William Hart, died at his mother's home on East Bishop street Friday morning at twenty minutes of nine of gastric fever after an illness of only a few days The news of his death was a great shock to the general public following, as it did, so soon after his fathers death and burial, and this doubly bereaved family certainly have the heart felt sympathy of the entire community. The young man had been in bad health for some time, and during his father's four weeks illness he watched and cared for him night and day. He attended the funeral of his father last Monday although not feeling well. Tuesday noon he took to his bed and gradually grew worse until this morning when death relieved him of his sufferings.

The deceased was born in Bloomsburg, Pa., and was 34 years old on the 12th of last November. He has been a resident of Bellefonte for the past fifteen years and was a drug clerk by profession. For several years he clerked in the drug store now owned by Sidney Krumrine. He is survived by his mother, two sisters, Hattie and Elizabeth, of this place, and one brother, Samuel, of Harrisburg.

The funeral took place Sunday afternoon, Rev. A. M. Schmidt officiating. Interment in the Union cemetery.

Mrs. Prudence Confer.

Died at her home near Howard, very suddenly Friday, April 28th, of stomach trouble, aged 72 years. She is survived by her husband and the following children: Mrs. J. B. McKean, of Blanchard; Mrs. Taylor Walker, Avis; William B., Clearfield; Mrs. Daniel Sullenberger, Howard; Daniel D., Orvis; Mrs. Orvis White, Beech Creek; Sylvester P., Blanchard; John G., Blanchard; George A., Howard; Mrs. J. B. Slicker, Milesburg; Thomas J., Howard, and Andrew D., at home. She had 64 grand children and 24 great grand children, having lived 56 years married life. She was a woman whose beautiful character embodied all womanly virtues. She was devoted to her husband and home. The remains were laid to rest in the Disciple cemetery at Blanchard on Monday, May 1st.

Mrs. Anna A. Wood.

Died suddenly at the home of her son, James Ettinger in Des Moines, Iowa, Tuesday, April 18, 1905. Her maiden name was Annie A. Davidson. She was united in marriage to George B. Ettinger at Tyrone, February 3, 1859, who died December 30, 1864, with her three sons she moved to Aaronsburg, where she resided until she moved to Casey, Iowa, in 1882. In the spring of 188, she was united in marriage to S. K. Wood whose death occurred ten years later. The body was taken to Casey, and buried from the home of her son, Clarence E. Ettinger.

Academy Wins the Silver Cup—Defeats Athletic Club 16--10.

The decisive game in the silver cup series of basket ball games between the Bellefonte Academy and Bellefonte Athletic club fives was played Monday in the Armory before a good sized crowd of enthusiastic supporters for both teams.

Victory perched upon the banner of the Academy and they have won the cup. Newbaker was absent from the Athletic club side, but his position was well filled by Dick Quigley, of State College, a member of State's basket ball squad. He scored three goals and a foul.

It was an exciting game all through and one hard to lose for either side. Final score was 16-10.

The teams lined up as follows:

Academy		Athletic Club
Walker	Forward	Quigley
Russell	Forward	Lane L
Bamman	Centre	Lingle (Capt)
Beddall (Capt)	Guard	Gephart
Dubarry	Guard	Keichline

Goals from field—Russell 2, Walker 2, Quigley 3, Gephart 1, Bamman 1.

Goals from fouls—Walker 6, Keichline 1, Quigley 1.

Referee—Dunn, of State College. Timekeeper, Prof. E. H. Meyer.

Curtin Relics Found in Old Taylor Shop.

Harrisburg, Pa., May 6—A pair of fine linen trousers and a watch fob on which was the name "Governor Andrew G. Curtin" were found to day, stowed away in the corner of a cutting table in one of Harrisburg's old merchant tailoring establishments.

The trousers were made for Curtin in 1865, when he was Governor, and it is supposed they were taken for repairs to the tailor, who laid them away, and both owner and tailor forgot all about them. The waist measure is 36 inches, showing that Governor Curtin at that time was not so stout as in after years.

Tardy Vindication for Nan.

New York, May 7—Dr. O'Hanlon, the coroner's physician who testified for the prosecution in all three of the trials of Nan Patterson, the show girl in the presence of clerks and some other persons in the coroner's office Saturday, said:

"Now that the trial is over I feel free to say that all along I believed that the revolver which fired the bullet was in the hands of Young. My reason is from the powder marks I found on one of Young's fingers on the day he was killed."

Death of Thomas Decker.

Thomas D. Decker of State College, one of Centre county's practical and most successful farmers died Monday morning at his home in the above mentioned town, after many months suffering with cancer of the throat.

The deceased was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Decker of the Branch, and was aged about 51 years. He was united in marriage 25 years ago, with Miss Emma Williams of Lemont, who survives him with the following children: Mrs. Harry Behers of State College, Miss Maud and Claude at home. He was a member of the Lutheran faith being a deacon of the Penn Hall church for a number of years and was always to be found in his place in the church when his health would permit. He was also prominently identified with the State College Lodge I. O. O. F., being Treasurer of the Lodge at the time of his death.

Death of a Former Centre County Lady.

Mrs. Rhoda Carter, widow of William A. Carter, died at her home in Altoona, 4:30 Saturday afternoon of cerebral apoplexy. Deceased was born near McVeytown, Mifflin county, Pa., September 14, 1833. Her maiden name was Rhoda A. Rutherford. On August 12, 1852, she was married to William A. Carter who preceded her to the grave almost 14 years ago. Mr. S. Carter was formerly a resident of Centre county, Pa. The following children survive the loss of a dear mother: Joseph G. and U. S. Carter, of Altoona; William N. Carter, of Olean, N. Y., and Mrs. Minnie Baird, of Hollidaysburg; also a brother, James Rutherford, of Globe Run, Huntingdon county, Pa., and a sister, Mrs. Henrietta Dale, of Oak Hall, Centre county. She was a member of the Walnut avenue Methodist church, Altoona. Funeral services were private at her residence, 1313 First street 2:30 Monday afternoon, conducted by her pastor, Rev. Brooks. Interment in Fairview cemetery.

Champion Anti-Race Suicide Man.

"If there is a man in the country who can beat this let me hear from him, I was 48 years old Sunday, and Thursday of last week my wife presented me with a fine daughter, making a grand total of 26 children—11 boys and 15 girls."

The author of this challenge is J. J. Yoder, a Cambria county farmer, residing near Winber, and it is believed that as an effective disciple of President Roosevelt's anti-race-suicide propaganda he has no peer in the United States.

Mr. Yoder is a native of Bedford county and was married when but 14 years old. To this early union 15 children were born, 10 of whom are living. His first wife died and he married again in 1895, and to this union 11 more children were born, 11 of whom are living.

Bold Robbery Near McKeesport.

Pittsburg, May 7.—At an early hour this morning two robbers entered the home of Mrs. Frederick Reitler, at Coulter, a mining hamlet near McKeesport, and forced the woman to disclose the hiding place of between $600 and $700. After securing the money the men carried the woman to a potato patch in the rear of the house, tied her feet and hands and left her in an unconscious condition on the ground. She was discovered an hour or two later by her family, who were aroused by her groans. Two arrests of suspects have been made, but Mrs. Reitler cannot identify them.

Mrs. Reitler is in a precarious condition tonight from shock, but will recover.
